

Area Drug Dragnet Nets 14

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
A sweeping crackdown on suspected narcotics pushers and users that extended from Kingston to New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties and other areas of Ulster County was staged today by city police. Fourteen persons were bagged in the dragnet.

Search continued for at least four others who are wanted to face charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs.

Six of those apprehended during the widespread raids that were launched simultaneously at 6 a. m. were accused of being pushers of "hard" narcotics, authorities disclosed.

The raiding party was made up of some 60 officers including 41 from this city and others from the Towns of Hurley, Rosendale, Ulster, New Paltz and the village of Saugerties. Police confiscated quantities of heroin, marijuana, hashish, barbiturates and LSD. Several implements including hypodermic needles, syringes and pipes, adapted for administering drugs were seized.

Today's activity that was described as the largest against dangerous drugs in the city culminated 10 months of vigorous investigations, eight months of which an undercover man from the police department was used to uncover and purchase evidence in the form of drugs.

One of the defendants, Earl Johnson, 48, was nabbed by police at the Kingston Stuyvesant Hotel in uptown Kingston, an official said. With his arrest authorities seized 14 decks of heroin and more of that drug that hadn't been cut, according to Detective Lieutenant Charles McCullough who played a prominent part with other officials in organizing the raids after obtaining evidence against the defendants.

Others arrested were identified as:

Richard Lackemann, 20, RD

2, Box 512, Saugerties, who was charged with criminal sale of dangerous drugs third degree, a felony. Stanley Kogut, 17, of RD 2, Box 568, Saugerties, charged with criminal sale of dangerous drugs, third degree (heroin). Anthony Gencarelli, 22, Box 423, Saugerties, charged with criminal sale of dangerous drugs, third degree, heroin.

Gary Naccarato, 18, of Tillson, charged with criminally selling dangerous drugs third degree, heroin, and criminally selling hallucogenic drugs, third degree, both felonies. Pedro Portaltin, 24, of 73 Franklin Street, charged with criminal sale of drugs. Carol Carpino, 17, of Hurley, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs and criminal possession of implements adapted for using drugs.

Thomas Davide, 22, of 165 Abeel Street, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs and criminal possession of implements. Cheryl Adickes, 17, of 118 Esopus Avenue, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs and implements. Dennis Showers, 19, of 18 Oak Street, city, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs and criminal possession of implements.

Jeffrey Brown, 16, of 148 Miller's Lane, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs and criminal possession of implements used to administer drugs. Edwin Basch, 19, whose address was listed as 113 Hone Street, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs, and criminal possession of implements—a pipe. Anthony Johnson, 18, of 32 Liberty Street, city, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs. Aleta Mercado, 23, of 73 Franklin Street, charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs. Police said that Basch also had in his possession when arrested a quantity of marijuana. Anthony Johnson also had a quantity of "grass" and a pipe, according to an official.

Lieutenant McCullough referred to Gencarelli, Lackemann and Kogut, all residents of Saugerties as "big pushers." Also in that class, the lieutenant said were Earl Johnson and Naccarato.

One suspect sought by police in connection with the narcotics drive reportedly left Kingston and went to California. Another suspect is a woman who has no permanent address in the city, it was reported.

The arraignments of the defendants began at 9:35 a.m. before Special City Judge George A. Beck. The first called was Naccarato whose attorney moved for the release of the defendant, claiming that no exact amount of narcotics con-laboratory report had been made. His case was adjourned until Wednesday, Nov. 4.

Two of the persons sought will bail totaling $2,100 was fixed. The second case was that of Earl Johnson who asked the court to assign counsel, claiming he had no funds to pay an attorney. Judge Beck put his case over until tomorrow and remanded the defendant to County Jail without setting bail. Others will be arraigned later today.

Several syringes and hypodermic needles were seized in the raids by police in addition to quantities of various drugs. An inventory was to be made by the detectives to determine the exact amount of narcotics confiscated. It was reported by an officer.

According to an official, the widespread raids and seizures resulted from the investigation that began in January under the direction of Lieutenant McCullough, Police Chief Francis J. Fagan, Deputy Police Chief Ju-

Responsible for Massive Raid Credit Undercover Agent

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
The arrest and arraignment of 14 persons charged with a variety of narcotics violations proceeded swiftly and smoothly during today's early morning hours, but officials are giving most of the credit for the success of the massive drug raid to an undercover agent from the Kingston Police Department.

Dressed in youthful garb and sporting longer-than-average hair, a city patrolman mingled with drug pushers and users for the past eight months, gathering evidence that led to the issuance of arrest warrants. Today's narcotics crackdown, say police, could not have been carried out effectively without the concrete evidence obtained by the agent.

The undercover work performed by disguised policemen during any narcotics investigation involves long and arduous hours and entails a degree of risk that could place the job under the classification of "hazardous duty."

The length of time required for undercover work is essential not only for the gathering of information and evidence but also so the agent can gain the trust and confidence of the people he "deals" with.

Drug dealers today, The Freeman was told, are a suspicious and distrustful group. Despite rumors that they unabashedly hawk their wares on open street corners and in broad daylight, they nevertheless deal primarily with a select group of patrons.

"It's true that many sell narcotics out in the open," said one patrolman, "but they usually deal with the young kids, kids who aren't likely to be doing undercover work for the police." They also have no qualms about selling to their friends, or friends of their friends, it was added.

But for a newcomer to obtain the narcotics from an experienced salesman takes patience and a good deal of deception. He has to look the part, and more importantly act the part, of an experienced and trusting user. Dealers, it was noted, are very much aware of the possible existence of undercover agents and most have to be assured that the man they are dealing with is trustworthy.

The danger doesn't end with the arraignment and conviction of the accused dealers. Undercover agents in the past told The Freeman that their lives and families have been threatened and that they've been harassed by persons who later recognize them as law enforcement agents.

After months of mingling with suspected dealers and users in New Paltz, Saugerties, Hurley, Rosendale, the Town of Ulster and Kingston, undercover personnel gathered enough evidence to support the issuance of search and arrest warrants. The crackdown began early this morning with simultaneous raids conducted at a number of localities.

While the undercover and preliminary work took time and patience, the proceedings at the Municipal Auditorium were accomplished with speed and efficiency. Suspects were escorted into a large room adjoining the gymnasium where they were booked and processed.

Mug shots were taken of each suspect and they were fingerprinted in assembly line style. They were then transported to the City Hall courtroom, via car, to await arraignment proceedings.

Most of the suspects appeared calm and quiet during booking and fingerprinting activities. Still showing the effects of sleep, most simply lounged on a long wooden bench, avoiding discussion with their companions and police. Several, however, joked with patrolmen and appeared unconcerned about the morning's activities.

Later in the City Courtroom, the atmosphere was even more relaxed. While Special City Judge George Beck was conferring in the judge's chamber, suspects joked among themselves and displayed little nervousness. Most appeared to be acquainted with each other, and several conversed with friends in the gallery.

Security Stiffened for Nixon, Bulletin Out for Men With Gun

CHICAGO (UPI)—President Nixon, launching a vigorous day of campaigning for a Republican Congress, pleaded today to the voters: "Give me some help! His schedule apparently was not altered by a hunt for two men reported seen with a rifle near the President's hotel.

Nixon began the day's politicking at a high school auditorium in Mt. Prospect, a suburb northwest of Chicago. "People want action," he told the audience in asking for Republican votes in next Tuesday's elections. "That's why I won the election in 1968."

Security measures at the high school, already tight, were stiffened after village police and federal agents issued a report that two men had been seen carrying a high-powered rifle about a mile from the Marriot Motor Hotel, where Nixon spent the night.

The report, Arlington Heights police said, had come from "an informant." A bulletin was issued for police throughout the area to pick up the two men, each of whom was described as white and six feet tall with athletic builds.

The men were reported seen in a black or blue 1966 or 1967 Oldsmobile hardtop.

Presidential aides said they had been informed of the report. They said the Nixon schedule — calling for a cross-country foray to change the political complexion of the Senate—would not be changed.

The day's political chores required Nixon to try to turn the voters away from two of the most prestigious names in the Democratic Party — Adlai E. Stevenson and Hubert H. Humphrey.

He set a firm tone of political combat in his first speech. He told the Arlington Heights audience to defeat Stevenson, who is running against Sen. Ralph T. Smith, the Republican appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Everett M. Dirksen.

"I need Ralph Smith in the Senate to help me keep my promises," Nixon said.

The President then repeated his pledge to end the war in Vietnam so that anyone would be discouraged from starting other similar wars. But, he said, there is more to the problem than ending the war.

"The question is not ending the war," he said. "The question is how we will bring it to an end. That is the difference—that is the difference between the two candidates."

The Mt. Prospect audience apparently was without hecklers. Hundreds of high school students were among the 3,000 persons who packed the auditorium. Pom-pom girls surged forward to greet him when the President arrived and, at least for awhile, the place took on the characteristics of a football rally.

Nixon was tired and a bit hoarse Wednesday night when he arrived in Chicago from a southern sweep of Florida and Texas in which he urged southern Democrats to "quit kicking the South around."

He also revealed that, while in Dallas, he had called former President Lyndon B. Johnson and told him that "I knew he tried just as hard as I am trying to bring peace to this country."

PRESIDENTIAL CONCERN—President Nixon (L), his face showing much concern, and Congressman William Cramer bend over anxiously as police motorcycle escort Don Leadbeter is picked up after slipping and flipping in St. Petersburg, Fla. The patrolman was hit by a truck while he was escorting the President to Clearwater Airport following a rally. Leadbeter apologized to the President for halting the parade but Nixon said, "We're just glad to have you." (UPI TELEPHOTO)

SRO Crowd in Saugerties Seven Candidates Exchange Views

By TIM SCHUSTER

SAUGERTIES
A standing-room-only crowd listened to seven political candidates exchange comments and explain views Wednesday night at the Flamingo Inn.

The Candidates Night was held by the League of Women Voters in this final week before elections.

After opening statements and rebuttals, the candidates answered specific questions from the audience. The office seekers are Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and his opponent, Democrat John Greaney and Conservative Harry Hoffman; State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. and his Democratic Adversary David Lenefsky; and State Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Democratic opponent George Barthel.

Among the questions: Are you in favor of the 18-year-old vote? Answers were "yes" by Fish and Greaney, "no" by Hoffman. Q: What do you propose to do about illegal use of drugs? Lenefsky said police departments must be bolstered, because the "cop on the beat is the best deterrent." He added that the Ulster County Sheriff's Department is 50 per cent short of men; that starting deputies make only $4,800 a year; and that the turnover rate is 50 per cent a year.

Rolison answered the same question by asking for a time limit on bringing cases before the court, and for cutting the supply of hard narcotics.

Bell was asked what his stance was on the referendum on housing appropriations on the ballot. He said he was against it because it is "open-ended," which means there is no time limit in years for the annual $20 million expenditure.

Bell and Barthel agreed that public education must be funded to a greater extent through state monies, as property taxes are getting out of line.

In response to a question on the Vietnam situation, Greaney said he had changed his ideas this Monday after listening to an Averill Harriman speech. He called the present South Vietnamese regime the "big, big bunch of bandits we've run across in a long time."

Other Local Political News on Pages 4 and 5.

Fish said that involvement in Vietnam was a mistake from the beginning, but the Guam agreement would get us out on schedule.

Q: Do you support the CSEA state institution teachers' strike and its causes? (There has been no strike.)

Barthel reiterated Lenefsky's call for binding arbitration. In opening statements, Rolison recounted his record, including help for day care centers, tighter restrictions on drunken drivers, and the expanded powers of the police. Lenefsky hit on the need for stronger auto-exhaust pollution laws and the disparity between state aid to education and the lumped in with other appropriate taxes.

Barthel gave his qualifications, noting that the Woodstock Taxpayers' Association had endorsed him. He compared the cost of each seat in the Albany Mall project, $41,000, to the private enterprise seat cost in the Albany Twin Towers next door, $6,000.

Bell covered accomplishments on the Route 9W "dead man's curve," cited Bristol Park for water recreation, said that he was "moving ahead" on Wittenberg, and pointed out the proud acquisition of the Minnawaska lands.

Hoffman called for an end to "35 years of liberalism," and said that he included the Eisenhower administration in that.

Greaney asked why Fish had voted against an education bill, the Hill-Burton bill for hospital aid, and against HUD funds. "You will bring inflation down by getting on big business and the labor unions," he said, as John Kennedy did.

And Fish said inflation is the "number one domestic issue," and said that was why he voted against some of the measures mentioned because they were lumped in with other appropriate taxes.

Fish also read a telegram from President Nixon citing "strong support" for the administration's programs.

Saugerties Town Curfew at 10

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES—Saugerties Town Board at a special meeting Wednesday night invoked a 10 p.m. curfew for youngsters under 18 years of age for Saturday night, Halloween.

The action came hard upon a Saugerties Village emergency decree ordering a curfew for all children 13 years and under for 6 p.m. on Halloween night.

Supervisor A. Michael Schovel said prior to the meeting, yesterday afternoon, the citizenry and its private and public property must be protected. He said the entire town police force would be on duty throughout the night and its communications system in full operation from headquarters in the Town Hall.

The Town Board fearing the Village Board curfew action would cause an influx of village youngsters into the town, ordered the curfew.

Any youngster under 18 years of age found on the streets after 10 p.m. unaccompanied by an adult will be brought to the Town Hall and the parents called.

The guidelines for penalties, punishment or fines had not been worked out by Freeman press time. The village also has a regular curfew at 10 p.m. for all youngsters 16 years and under, and this, according to Mayor Cornelius M. Cox, will be strictly enforced.

The village action was taken Monday night when a report had been received by the Village Board which they considered reliable, that an attempt would be made to distribute Halloween goodies such as candy and fruit doctored with the drug, LSD.

The village trustees went a step further and decreed that it will be unlawful for any individual to distribute or otherwise pass out any food stuffs or beverages on any street, alley, highway or parking area in the village. This however, does not curtail the usual trick or treating tours of the youngsters before 6 p.m. or after 6 p.m., if accompanied by an adult.

The matter of extending the Glasco Water District on a request of several members of the Fabiano family, along their road to include their residences, was again postponed pending the clearance of easements along the property lines. Supervisor Schovel said.

The proposed construction of a 46 by 52 feet one-story concrete block and brick veneered building proposed for the Route 9W site are Alfred R. Scarperi Associates of Kingston.

District property for an office and to be used as the Barclay Heights polling place was discussed by the Town Board. Several bids had been received, but the lowest was $66,000 which was considered too high and all bids were rejected. Supervisor Schovel said the town will advertise for bids again early in the spring when construction would be more favorable. Architects for the building proposed for the Route 9W site are Alfred R. Scarperi Associates of Kingston.

Lower Rate Boost Recommended for C-H

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — A Public Service Commission hearing examiner today recommended Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation be allowed to increase revenues nearly $5.5 million. Examiner Joseph J. Gottlieb recommended that the PSC allow the utility to file tariff amendments to produce $4.4 million more in revenue from electric service and $813,000 additional from gas service.

The examiner noted that the combined revenue increase would actually reach $5,490,000 because certain sources of income and receivables would be increased proportionately by any new schedule of rates.

Central Hudson had originally asked for increases of $6,907,000.

Central Hudson provides service throughout an area of about 2,600 square miles in the central portion of the Hudson Valley, including the cities of Beacon, Kingston, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie. It serves about 171,000 electric customers and 42,600 gas customers.

The report is now being served on the utility and all parties to the proceeding. They have 20 days to file exceptions. An additional 15 days is allowed for reply briefs.

Phillips Denies Minnewaska Charge

LAKE MINNEWASKA—Kenneth Phillips Jr., of Lake Minnewaska Mountain House Inc., said today he would like to correct the mistaken impression given by a candidate for public office that the state and the corporation are sharing a $2.50 fee charged for cars to use the Mountain House road which goes to the 7,000-acre state park.

David Lenefsky, candidate for the State Senate seat held by Jay P. Rolison on Tuesday voiced disapproval of the entrance fee and charged that it represented double taxation.

Phillips said he did not wish to get into a political debate, but he said the record should be set straight. He said there is no charge to go into state lands and that there are several free routes which motorists can use. However, if they prefer to take the scenic route through the Lake Minnewaska property still owned by the corporation, there is a $2.50 charge for use of the corporation's road.

Phillips further noted that the road is now closed for the winter and has been closed for the past three weeks. He said the corporation still owns Lake Minnewaska, two hotels, the ski area and about 3,500 acres including the gatehouse.

Freeman Power Cut Again

KINGSTON—It was lights out, phones out and presses down at The Daily Freeman once again for about 30 minutes Wednesday afternoon as urban renewal construction workers severed a power line while working on the new four-lane Broadway.

A spokesman for the Callanan Road Improvement Company, contractors for the Broadway road job, said that the company was not informed that the Freeman had power lines in the area. The spokesman said that the company was informed that a fire alarm line ran underground from The Freeman across the street and that the line was excavated without damage and later replaced.

Power was out from 2:34 in the afternoon to 3 p.m. Central Hudson crews made the repairs.

Man Gets One Year

KINGSTON—One man was sentenced in County Court Wednesday to a year in Ulster County jail, other persons under indictment entered pleas and a number of cases were marked ready for trial in County Court in November.

Nathan Rosenbaum, 54, who previously pleaded guilty to larceny, was sentenced by County Judge Raymond J. Mino to a year of confinement and he was remanded to Ulster county jail.

Sentencing of Richard Ward of Long Island was postponed pending a pre-sentencing report from the Probation Department. Ward, who previously entered a plea of innocent to drug charges, entered a new plea to a charge of criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the sixth degree.

Fifteen cases were marked ready for trial. Those under indictment include: Rodney Arnold, Vincent Schoonmaker, Floyd Coddington, Steven Allen Wils, Norman Jerome Feldman, Mary Frances Pearsall, Kim Brett Miller, Francois Lanuto, Charles Merle Wesibaum, Dennis Weider, Jeffrey Lisman, Michael Mentessi, John Zaccal, George Gulick and Laurie Gulick.

In the case of Tristone Cerasoli, charged with burglary third degree and criminal possession of stolen property in the second degree, Cerasoli was assigned counsel, Frederick D. Kaufman of Kingston and had his case postponed until Nov. 2. He was remanded to jail.

Charles Timothy Straight, charged with grand larceny in the third degree, appeared with his counsel, Joseph Hill, who asked for a dismissal claiming that too much time had elapsed between his arrest and the indictment and trial.

Judge Mino requested Hill to make a formal motion with regard to the matter and adjourned the case until Friday at 2 p.m.

A plea of innocent was entered by Louis Panzera who is charged under three indictments: burglary, third degree, grand larceny, third degree and another charge of burglary, third degree. His case was ad-journal until Nov. 25 and bail was continued.

Another plea of innocent was entered by Frances Merle Weisbaum, who is charged with criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree. Her case was also adjourned until Nov. 25.

Theodore Howard McIntosh, charged with two counts of robbery in the first degree, entered a plea of innocent and had his case put over until Nov. 25, pending motions. Bail was continued.

Colleen O'Rourke, charged with criminal selling of a dangerous drug in the third degree also entered a plea of innocent and her case was adjourned until Nov. 25 pending motions. She was released in the custody of her father.

The prosecution was represented by assistant district attorney Edward M. P. Green.

Cambodian Infantrymen Battle for Their Lives

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Two Cambodian infantry companies fought North Vietnamese troops today near the site of a major battle in August. The Cambodian command said its forces were engaged in "a battle for their lives."

The Cambodian command said the North Vietnamese attacked Cambodian positions 14 miles northeast of the capital at dawn and the battle was raging 16 hours later.

"It is a battle for their lives," a Cambodian spokesman said.

The fighting was four miles north of Prek Tameak, scene of a major battle in late August in which the Cambodian army suffered more than 200 dead and wounded. Heavy bombing raids have been carried out against the suspected Communist positions in the area.

Cambodians Wounded

The size of the North Vietnamese force was undetermined but the area was a sector where elements of the 1965th North Vietnamese regiment had been spotted in recent days.

"I hope it is not serious because we have only two companies," said Maj. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman.

The U. S. command said today 43 American GIs were killed in the Vietnam war last week and 279 were wounded.

It was the third lowest weekly toll of the year and U.S. military sources said the last four weeks have brought the lowest combat death toll for a 28-day period since Sept. 5-Oct. 2, 1965, when 91 Americans died.

The toll raised to 43,904 the number of Americans killed in the war since Jan. 1, 1961. U.S. military sources said 38 GIs died from noncombat causes last week to bring the total of such fatalities to 8,730.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said government troop deaths also reflected the relative lull in fighting with 215 dead for the week. It was the second lowest government death toll of the year, surpassed only by 197 dead in the week ending Jan. 17.

The U.S. command said the latest wounded toll brought the U.S. wounded for the war to 291,024.

American spokesmen reported what they called extremely light ground action for U.S. troops in South Vietnam and said there were no U.S. GIs killed in action.

It was the third time in less than two months that a 24-hour period has passed with no American combat deaths.

American B52 bombers carried out another day of raids against the HO Chi Minh trail in Laos to bring out a third consecutive week of daily saturation bombings of the Communist supply line.

The U.S. command said 43 Americans were killed in the war last week and 279 wounded. Viet Cong units attacked a Cambodian defensive position a few miles to the west of Phnom Peny but government forces drove them back.

"Our forces were on top of a hill and that is why the Communists could inflict no damage or casualties," Am Rong said.

★ ★ ★ Reds on Nixon: Just Ballot Try

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam's chief negotiator at the Paris Vietnam talks said today that President Nixon has attempted to mislead the American people in order to win the Nov. 3 elections.

Xuan Thuy, in a statement to the press before starting today's 90th session of the talks, called on Americans to "join hands" with the Vietnamese to force Nixon to endorse the Hanoi-backed Viet Cong peace plan demanding unconditional withdrawal of U.S. troops. Today also was the second anniversary of President Lyndon B. Johnson's decision to halt bombing of North Vietnam, an action which allowed the talks to begin.

Thuy said again today Hanoi will not go back on its rejection of the Oct. 7 Nixon peace package urging a cease-fire and a new broadened international peace conference.

"We have completely rejected this plan which merely aims at winning ballots for Nixon in the coming elections," Thuy said.

"I want to emphasize today that Mr. Nixon, during his recent election tour and before the United Nations General Assembly, has pushed even further his abusive use of the word peace in order to mislead American and other people."

Thuy said the "prolongation and expansion of the war in the whole of Indochina not only piles up crimes against the Vietnamese and Indochinese peoples but results in piling up difficulties in the United States in the political, social, economic and financial fields."

★ ★ 2 UPI Staffers Ambush Victims

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Two United Press International staff members, correspondent Frank Frosch and Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer Kyoichi Sawada, were found dead on Highway 2 south of Phnom Penh today. Both had been shot through the chest, apparently in a Communist ambush.

Frosch, 27, Atlanta, was UPI's Phnom Penh bureau manager. Sawada, 34, was Japanese and had won numerous photographic prizes, including the 1966 Pulitzer Prize for his dramatic picture of a Vietnamese mother and her children desperately fleeing across a river in search of safety.

The two men left Phnom Penh alone in an automobile Wednesday afternoon to drive to Chambak 24 miles to the south along Highway 2 to see whether any fighting was going on in the area.

Found Shot in Chest

They did not return, and this morning another UPI staff member, Khau Buu Khien, went out to look for them. He found they had been killed on Highway 2, 20 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Cambodian soldiers said they heard numerous shots in the area about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, but did not approach the scene of the shooting until dawn today. They found the two bodies lying about 30 feet from their blue Datsun automobile in a marshy wooded area. Both had been shot several times through the chest.

Frosch and Sawada were the sixth and seventh correspondents killed in the Cambodian conflict. At least 17 other newsmen were listed as missing and eight others have been freed after being captured and held for various lengths of time.

Captured, Released Before

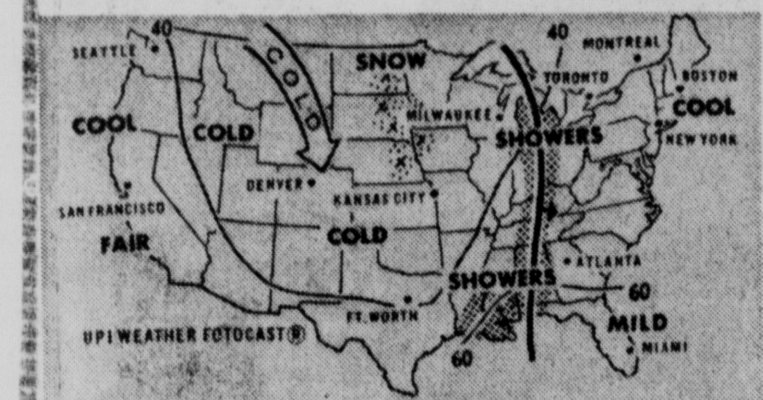

They also were the third and fourth UPI staff men to die while covering the Indochina war. Two UPI photographers were killed in South Vietnam — Charles Eggleston, 23, Philadelphia, was killed in street fighting in the Cholon area of Saigon May 6, 1968, and Hiromichi Mine, of Japan, died March 5, 1968, when an armored personnel carrier in which he was riding hit a mine on the road between Da Nang and Phu Bai on South Vietnam's northern coast. More than a dozen UPI correspondents and photographers have been wounded.

Sawada had been captured by the Communists in Cambodia once before. Along with UPI correspondent Robert Miller he was taken by the North Vietnamese while driving along Highway 2, but they were released unharmed eight hours later.

LENEFSKY: Property Tax Issue

POUGHKEEPSIE, opposing a larger state role in financing public schools, declared Lenefsky, "my opponent puts himself on record today that 'New York State must stop using the inequitable property tax as the primary source of financing public schools.' Lenefsky said 'my opponent, Jay P. Rolison, and I completely differ on this issue of whether to relieve the property tax burden from progressive tax a hundred years ago when real estate ownership was a direct measure of wealth,' said Lenefsky.

Today the property tax is a retrogressive tax because it takes a larger percentage from low and middle income families than it does from wealthy individuals. Wealth today may only incidentally consist of real estate holdings," continued Lenefsky. "Many people today derive substantial income from stocks and bonds, many of which produce tax exempt income," said Lenefsky. "The only possible way New York State can take greater responsibility for the financing of education costs is to revise the State tax structure along the lines of my earlier proposal for a graduated business tax and for increasing big business taxes. Several people have recently suggested to me that the additional revenue collected by the state from increasing the business tax on our larger corporations should be used exclusively for financing public schools. The suggestion is excellent," said Lenefsky. "and I wholeheartedly endorse it. Since business is a major beneficiary of public education, it makes a great deal of sense," continued Lenefsky. "to use business taxes for financing public education. 'My opponent Republican-Conservative Jay P. Rolison voted to cut state aid to education last year,' declared Lenefsky. "That vote represented a loss of $937,000 to Dutchess County Citizens, and a loss of $645,000 for Ulster County. Is that the kind of representation Dutchess and Ulster citizens want from their State Senator?" he asked. "State aid to our public schools has not kept pace with the inflationary school costs," declared Lenefsky. "As a consequence, our property taxes continue to rise, my home town of Olive is representative of what has happened all across Ulster and Dutchess Counties," said Lenefsky. "inflation per pupil since 1968 has increased 11 per cent, property taxes have increased 10.3 per cent per pupil but State aid has only increased 2.9 per cent per pupil since 1968. My opponent's vote to cut state aid to education contributed to this crisis situation," concluded Lenefsky.

ROLISON: Not Forgotten

POUGHKEEPSIE lieve that somehow Ulster and State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Dutchess are unknown in Al-Jr. (R-Dutchess, Ulster) today bany and that there are only 60 charged his Democrat-Liberal counties in the State. Instead of opponent with using every 62. "If he had lived here long enough and had taken the time to learn about New York State ample. He would have us be-stand the facts," Rolison said. "In Ulster County alone, state aid in local assistance is up over 3 million dollars from last year. This includes increases in aid to education, social services, regular and special per capita aid, transportation, health, and the Community College. Since 1959, state aid to Ulster County has increased some 291%."

"In addition, we have secured 25 million dollars for the Minnewaska Park, 425 thousand dollars for Belleayre, 115 thousand for Bristol Beach, and a new appropriation for Wittenburg. "Major capital construction projects, which provide money and jobs, currently underway total almost 14 million dollars, with another 34 million dollars worth planned. Of this figure, some 50 million dollars is for highway construction. Major highway projects include reconstruction of Route 209 which, through our efforts, has been given a top priority. "Ulster County if far from a 'forgotten county' and all the rhetoric from my opponent doesn't make it so!"

Barthel, who is adamantly against campus violence, said he'd like to see the creation of a student advisory committee at the college where young people could air their grievances and take those grievances right to their Albany representative.

BARTHEL: Backs Kelder Report

ELLENVILLE past semester at Ulster County Community College. "Kelder, a trustee at our Stone Ridge campus," Barthel explained, "Was criticized by Assemblyman Bell when he reported that there was no violence, no take-over of buildings, and that the only visible act of protest was the raising and lowering of the flag together with silent prayer in sympathy for the Kent State tragedy."

Barthel said that "Bell's unfair and unjust remarks, delivered at a GOP open-to-the-public meeting in Marletown do not create an atmosphere of trust and cooperation at our college where 75 per cent of the students are Ulster County residents."

Barthel, who is adamantly against campus violence, said he'd like to see the creation of a student advisory committee at the college where young people could air their grievances and take those grievances right to their Albany representative.

VOGT: One Real Issue in Campaign

KINGSTON
Francis J. Vogt, Republican-Conservative candidate for the office of District Attorney, replying to his opponent, Democrat Alex J. Nirenberg said, "I hope we can lay these phony issues to rest once and for all the finish this campaign on the only real issue which is: our qualifications for the office we both seek."

Vogt said that approximately three weeks ago our district attorney office received several complaints from citizens and merchants regarding a handbill passed around by my opponent bearing the photograph of one half of a dollar bill and we were asked if this was not against the law.

"We checked and it appeared that this was a direct violation of Section 475 Title 18 United States Code. We referred the matter to Secret Service, New York City, which confirmed that the passing of such handbills was in fact, a violation of the statute but they also advised that it is a violation very seldom prosecuted since it usually arises out of ignorance without criminal intent. They indicated that they would contact Nirenberg to determine the source of the bills and confiscate the printing plates. At no time did we so much as suggest that Nirenberg be arrested for this violation since we were quite in accord with the Secret Service's opinion as to Nirenberg's ignorance.

Vogt, who is first Assistant District Attorney, said that "as to the conviction record of our office, I am very glad to see that all of Nirenberg's campaign rhetoric and phony statistics boil down to only two cases, in which we accepted pleas of loitering to two indictments, one charging felonious sale of drugs and the other felonious possession. I personally reviewed both of these cases and had they been assigned to me at the beginning, both indictments would have been dismissed. In one case the evidence upon which the case rested was the result of an illegal search and seizure, thus inadmissible and in the other case the procedure used by the undercover agent in purchasing the drugs from the defendant, upon which the case rested, was improper making prosecution of the case impossible.

Both District Attorney Joseph Torraca and I have answered fully the questions posed by the Democratic candidate as to the conviction record of our office, and neither of us intends to belabor the point any further regardless of what new distortions Nirenberg may come up with. Suffice to say, all of our closed files are open to inspection by anyone at any time and this office has nothing to hide and nothing of which to be ashamed."

SICKLER: Zoning Ordinance

TOWN OF ESOPUS
Richard Sickler, Democratic and Conservative candidate for Councilman in the Town of Esopus, today committed himself to fight for a constructive and meaningful zoning ordinance for the Town of Esopus.

Sickler stated that he believes constructive zoning is necessary for the orderly growth of the Town of Esopus. "Zoning restrictions have many and varied objectives," Sickler said. "Constructive zoning aims to conserve property values, preserve the character of a neighborhood, whether it be residential or commercial; insure adequate governmental services, as the municipality undergoes the growth process, by proper use of the enabling acts which authorize the development of transportation, water sewage, schools, parks and other public conveniences; and even to minimize traffic congestion."

Sickler continued, "Comprehensive zoning is the tool most widely used by progressive municipalities to restrict land use and to implement community planning. By dividing a municipality into districts and imposing restrictions upon the use of land in such districts, a municipality enabled to apply constant and consistent pressure upon landowners to the end that land use will be guided by the community plan and the public interest."

In concluding Sickler said, "While I favor zoning regulations for the Town of Esopus, my approval of any zoning ordinance will be contingent upon its applicability to the needs and welfare of the Town and its residents. I do not support zoning regulations prepared solely by professional planners. I demand that representatives of our Town, with knowledge of its needs and best interests, be consulted. The ordinance offered by the Esopus representatives of the Town Zoning Commission last year Board before it is enacted. This was wholly inadequate. The I pledge to do as a member revised ordinance must be of the Town Board."

KINGSTON Thursday, called on all political Ulster County landscape. Conservative Party Chairman parties. "To join with us in our "We are beginning Wed., Nov. Harry S. Hoffman, a conservative Party candidate for Congressman, was joined by Arthur J. Bowen, chairman of the Buckley for Senator Committee in his request to all town chairmen and committeemen to begin on Nov. 4th in the removal of signs posted by the two groups in their districts.

He further stated, "Prompt removal of posters from the trees and utility poles is a responsibility of the candidates, the parties, and the persons posting the items. It is a far greater responsibility to the citizenry and to the scenic beauty of Ulster County that this removal be accomplished as soon as possible after election. It is more practical to practice ecology than to merely preach it."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 29, 1970

Choice for Voters

These are dangerous and troubled times which demand the most careful and prudent leadership both in our affairs at home and in the world.

At home our struggle is over inflation, crime, drugs, pollution, civil rights and unemployment.

Throughout the world, the rate of progress toward peace and world understanding is far from satisfactory. All of us share the frustration of this atomic era.

Nixon Administration is moving on a number of fronts such as the Cambodian incursion, which has proved a worthy mission. The American people have lined up solidly against hasty departure that the U.S. might later regret. Then there is the troop withdrawal and Nixon's commitment to move forward toward an all-volunteer armed forces as rapidly as possible.

James L. Buckley, Conservative and Independent Alliance Party candidate for the U.S. Senate, supports the Nixon leadership in these vital areas. He will back up Nixon in the handling of the Vietnam War he inherited and the President's effort to restore the nation to responsible and economically sound government. The President needs this support in Congress in the monumental task leading the nation. Otherwise, we would have a period of retrogression with increased tensions.

Buckley's two opponents in the three-man race opposed the President in every major issue area both in the Senate and the House. They represent a single view point. Buckley stands alone.

Buckley is a moderate and possesses qualifications for this very important government post. He is a professional man, having practiced law and as a businessman engaged in petroleum and mineral explorations has traveled into foreign countries gaining experience first hand in foreign affairs.

Buckley claims that he supports the programs of Governor Rockefeller which are needed by the people of New York and which require the full support of the Federal government.

There is a defined choice for the voters in this election for U.S. Senator. If you approve the policies of President Nixon and Governor Rockefeller, vote for Buckley. If not, then make your decision as to voting for Charles E. Goodell, Republican and Liberal candidate, or Richard L. Ottinger, Democratic candidate.

No one can afford to be indifferent in this year's election.

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Member of Congress in the reapportioned nine-county 28th District, has been cooperative with the Nixon Administration in supporting many of the major issues. In contrast to Republican Senator Goodell, who has divorced himself from the President, he has been a proponent of vital administration policies.

On the issue of the Vietnam War, he was for de-Americanizing the war by building up the South Vietnam army and pulling American boys out of Vietnam. The human cost and financial burden in Vietnam together with our other commitments make it imperative that Asian troops assume a greater combat responsibility.

Domestically, he takes a forthright stand on the question of drug abuse and crime. He co-sponsored the House-passed Drug Abuse Education Control Act of 1969 and supported the Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention Control Act of 1970.

He sponsored the House-passed Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets amendments which earmarked $3.5 billion for local enforcement. With crime on the increase, there must be an all-out attack on crime.

On the all-important question of economy, he would establish priorities to live within the federal budget meeting vital social and other needs while curtailing non-essential spending.

It is also well to remember that the function of the House of Representatives is not only the enacting of laws, but also the making of appropriations. The importance of voting for a qualified, experienced representative in Washington readily can be seen.

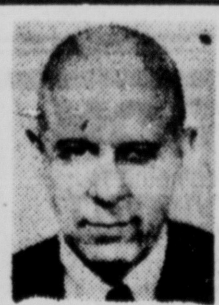

In our view, Fish, who is winding up his first two years, has the experience in county, state and federal government and is the man best equipped to represent this Congressional District with its more than 400,000 people.

Maryland candidates fear that the hard line some politicians are taking on campus unrest is turning into a "hate-the-student" campaign. Some are calling off their attacks, which bunch all students as responsible for unrest. The majority, there as elsewhere, are law abiding and just want to be left alone to get an education.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam is going ahead with nationwide antiwar demonstrations October 31. They are blind to the fact that President Nixon's peace plan will end the war if North Vietnam concurs. They should demonstrate in Hanoi.

"I Just Didn't Have the Heart to Leave Him in the Pet Shop!"

David Lawrence Says Expect No Great Change In Makeup of Both Houses

WASHINGTON — There's beginning to be a lot of talk about "little change" in the Senate and House as a result of the congressional elections. George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, says he expects a shift of perhaps three or four seats either way in the House and maybe two or three seats either way in the Senate.

Senator Gaylord Nelson, Democrat of Wisconsin, describes the whole situation nationally as "very fluid," and declares it is possible for either party "to make a net gain or suffer a net loss of two or three seats." He adds that last-minute thoughts by the undecided voters may decide the election.

Ronald Ziegler, White House Press Secretary, has gone on record with an interesting statement that a Republican gain of one or two Senate seats would be significant. He points out that the tradition has been for the President's party to lose 30 to 35 seats in an off-year election. He concludes, therefore, that it would be a success for the administration if there were only a net change of one or two seats in the Senate and a relatively small change in the House.

On top of the informal predictions made by individual members of the Senate and House and administration officials comes the Gallup Poll. It now declares that throughout the country, based on surveys conducted during the first two weeks of October, Democrats won 50 per cent of the votes for candidates for the House, as opposed to 44 per cent for Republican candidates, with six per cent undecided.

National surveys of this kind can hardly indicate which candidates will be elected, because individual districts are not separately polled. In fact, it is unlikely that there will be any such information available until the votes are tabulated after election. The announcement of the Gallup figures was accompanied by the following comment:

"Since it is not feasible to make surveys in each Congressional District, no exact count can be made of House seats that will be won. National percentages offer a good guide, but they can not be translated directly into seats."

Among both Democratic and Republican leaders here, however, there seems to be a general impression that this year's election will not result in a heavy loss of seats to the Republicans, as has often occurred to the party which happens to have a President in the White House at the time of an off-year election. The inference being drawn is that, while many of the contests will not be close, the total number of seats won by the Republicans and the total won by the Democrats in the Senate and the House will not vary much from the present makeup of both houses. In other words, a gain by the Republicans will be regarded as a surprise, and a maintenance by leaders in the two camps.

The big unknown factor is whether the stay-at-home vote will be so large as to affect one party more than the other. This is the aspect that is causing much uneasiness among the campaign managers in both parties. There should, of course, be a greater number of persons voting than before, because more citizens are eligible to vote. But it is doubtful whether the percentage of the actual voters will be as high as it has been before. There are various reasons for this development. One is the lack of clarification of the issues by both parties. Also, a large number of voters have changed their residences since the last election, and this becomes commonplace when unemployment figures rise and jobs are sought.

On the whole, the candidates in both parties have not been able to arouse voter interest as much as in other years. The theory of the Democratic strategists is that the younger generation will do a lot more voting than usual and will be a factor in favor of the anti-administration side. But the veterans of past elections have not been impressed with the electioneering activities of the younger persons in the current campaign and believe that, when the ballots are counted, the percentages of actual participants at the polls will not differ very greatly from other off-year elections.

Buckley Now Is Top Man As Ottinger Begins to Fade

By BRUCE FLOSSAT

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — In a late cross-country telephone check, I have been advised that New York's Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, Rep. Richard Ottinger, has personally done what others were supposed to do to him — stripped away priceless lead ground and put himself in danger of defeat by Conservative party challenger James Buckley.

Ottinger, leading both Buckley and incumbent Republican Sen. Charles Goodell by what seemed a healthy margin a month ago, has been staggering downhill ever since.

The experts' original script had it that Ottinger, coming strong off a late June primary victory rooted in heavy, costly television exposure, could only be pulled within range of defeat if many liberals and moderates deserted him for Goodell in their rage over Vice President Spiro Agnew's anti-Goodell assaults.

In the ensuing weeks however, Ottinger has just been blowing it. In television debates with his rivals he has been creamed. On the issue front, he has been coming across soft and mushy.

As I noted in an earlier report, his identity factor was not nearly as high as his spring television blitz suggested. Watching him campaign on busy streets in upper Manhattan, I saw hundreds of people fail to recognize him.

There was irony in this, for his heavy television outlays brought severe criticism down upon him and are still haunting him. And, somehow, the Mr. Nice Guy of the springtime outing has this fall begun to strike more and more voters as boyish and perhaps hollow.

Meantime, Buckley has been exceeding the most optimistic expectations of his managers and supporters. He takes the debates. He has found enough money to get the television exposure he needed to make a balanced fight of it. President Nixon himself has come within an ace of endorsing him openly. Irish, Italian and other ethnic Democrats have announced for him. The prospects mount that he will score hugely in such vote-rich New York City suburbs as are encompassed in Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Rockland and Orange counties. Upstate is highly promising.

In the very upper Manhattan sector where I saw voters try to puzzle out who Ottinger was, Buckley was nearly mobbed.

The first New York Daily News poll showing Buckley with a seven-point budge over Ottinger — and leaving Goodell a weak third may or may not reflect the candidates' real status. But knowledgeable politicians who once said Buckley might win now say he will win. And even those who think Ottinger will still pull it out believe the race will be extremely close.

Buckley may gain fresh pickup from hitherto moderate Republican loyalists who were turned off by Goodell's mystifying Oct. 25 television appearance. He billed it as a major announcement, giving rise to speculation he might give up and urge Ottinger's

Jack Anderson Says Contractors Shared in Money For Anti-Poverty Program

WASHINGTON — Now that the Nixon administration is winding down the anti-poverty program, many of the nation's poor are wondering where the money went.

Much of it went to enrich unscrupulous contractors and a n-t-i-p-o-v-e-r-t-y officials interested only in making a fast buck.

This column has already reported how Volt Information Sciences, Inc., banked some $30 million in anti-poverty money by cashing in on friendships inside the Office of Economic Opportunity.

At the lower levels, some small contractors demonstrated equal skill at extracting from the taxpayers money intended for the poor. VISTA's dealings with two associated contractors, for example, cost the poor $260,000 for some specious "recruiting materials."

A three month investigation by this column has produced the following findings: One contractor skipped the country after pocketing almost $200,000. The other continued to milk VISTA for an additional $62,000.

A VISTA official had part of his home carpeted "at cost," courtesy of one of the contractors. In deed, the carpeting might have been installed free of charge if another official hadn't learned about it and demanded a bill.

The case of John Burwell, a Washington, D.C., designer and photographer now abiding in England, illustrates how the contract game is played.

Bilking the Poor

In the fall of 1968, VISTA officials decided to place "recruiting exhibits" at a National Career Exposition in New York City. They contracted with Burwell to construct the exhibits.

According to one insider who was directly involved, Burwell did nothing but "enlarge some existing photographs, mount them and hang them on the wall." For this "temporary exhibit," our investigation shows, Burwell was paid $21,186.

VISTA executives, as part of their war against poverty, then decided to construct a series of permanent exhibits. "There was no reason the temporary exhibits could not have been used again," one VISTA official told my associate Joe Spear. "But that, of course, is not the way you give away money."

Without seeing bids, VISTA administrative officer Roy Little instructed Burwell to begin work on the permanent exhibits. Arrangements were made to pay him as a Volt subcontractor. Thus Volt would get its customary slice of the poor peoples' pie.

Not long after Burwell began work on the permanent exhibits, government auditors discovered that over a span of three years he had been paid $115,301 for unaccounted "recruitment materials." This was in addition to $49,823 that he had collected in direct billings for work on the VISTA Volunteer magazine.

Burwell picked up another $11,393 for the first permanent exhibit, then hastily departed for England. His associate, M. Jack Hirose, immediately took over the contracts for three more exhibits. Again, no bids were sought.

Another designer, Donald Applegate of Mt. Rainer, Md., later learned of Hirose's work on the exhibits and felt they were "way overpriced."

In search of pricing information, Applegate contacted an exhibit builder by the name of Emmett Cunningham of Alexandria, Va. Applegate quoted Cunningham as saying that he and Hirose were partners and that he had built the same exhibits before for $5,000 apiece.

"Official's Carpet"

"He called me back later," Applegate told this column, "and said there was more involved than he had realized. He told me that apparently some government officials had gotten their houses carpeted as part of the deal. He asked me to submit a competitive bid so as not to make them look too bad."

In connection with the carpeting, Applegate said, Cunningham mentioned the name of Alexander Grant, then VISTA's recruitment chief.

Cunningham confirmed the conversations with Applegate but told this column he lied to Applegate "to mislead a competitor."

Both Cunningham and Hirose admitted "selling" the carpet to Grant for $180. Cunningham said he "made a profit of 20 per cent on the deal." Hirose, however, claimed Grant got the carpet "at cost."

Grant acknowledged buying the carpet from Hirose "at wholesale" but maintained he could see "nothing irregular" in the deal. However, Roy Little told this column that Grant paid for the carpet only "after I asked him to pay for it. He put me on the spot." Little denied that he had ever received any favors from contractors.

Meanwhile, only parts of the controversial exhibits have ever been used. Three are now sitting idle in a government warehouse in Washington. Volt recently turned over the fourth to General Electric for possible use under a new recruitment contract.

Denials Backfire

The arrest of 13 suspects in a drug raid at famed Walter Reed Army Hospital has left a number of military bureaucrats red-faced.

Most embarrassed by the arrests were Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, the Army information chief, and Louis Arrants, an information officer at the Hospital, who had poached our stories about drug abuses at Walter Reed.

When a reporter for this column visited the hospital last August to investigate the drug problem, Arrants denied there was a problem and tried to force the reporter to surrender her notes.

After we reported that the hospital had become a "haven of drug abuse," and pointed out how Arrants had attempted to hide the facts, General Sidle received a complaint from a reader about Arrants' actions.

The general immediately supported Arrants in a smug letter which stated, falsely, that the subject of drug use had never been discussed by Arrants and our reporter.

Youth vs. Age

The White House is worried about money for social welfare programs. It's gotten down to whether the White House to cut the bill to aid dependent children or knock out funds for the elderly.

One despondent administrator said both arguments are so strong that he might as well flip a coin. Either the young or the old are going to have to go begging another year.

Henry J. Taylor Says Lindsay's Stroke of Genius

NEW YORK — In this state's election campaigns New York Mayor John V. Lindsay is proving again that he is not the most intelligent man in town. The feeling grows that ambitious Lindsay looks bright and talks bright, but, at bottom, he's stupid.

Prodded at a press conference, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller wisely advised Mayor Lindsay to stay out of the state gubernatorial and U.S. Senate fights. Maverick Republican Lindsay promptly declared for Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg. Then he further compounded his own ridiculous plight by unabashedly adding: "I am a Republican and I intend to remain a Republican."

None of this was necessary. Ambitious Lindsay was totally gratuitous in infuriating candidate Rockefeller, on whom he and financially-gasping New York City must depend for much coming out of Albany, and in incensing this state's Republican party. It's reminiscent of the story about the Irishman with a black eye. Asked who gave it to him, he answered: "Gave it to me, hell! Nobody gave it to me! I had to fight for it!"

Had Lindsay confirmed the widespread supposition that he will join the Democratic party, you would have had one set of conditions. A Gallup poll this column reported on June 3 showed Lindsay the fourth most popular choice for President on the Democratic ticket. But his dramatic announcement that he'll remain a Republican results in Lindsay being the odd man out all around, playing a game of musical chairs all by himself.

Lindsay's action even has doubtful value to Goldberg. Lindsay was a man of promise who soon broke the promise. Although highly appealing and loaded with TV charisma, and with the background of exactly the kind of man you would like to see attracted into politics, Lindsay's failures here were so glaring that even his own Republican party — doing it the hard way — refused him its renomination.

For example, Lindsay had castigated this city's outrageously padded relief rolls as "wanton welfareism" and called the racket "an atrocious scandal." Then 400,000 more were added to the relief rolls after Lindsay took over. As one result, while this state has 10 per cent of the nation's population it has 15 per cent of the welfare payments. Hand in hand with this, Lindsay increased the municipal employees to 300,000 and accumulated enough unpaid bills to create an artificial snowstorm.

Self-called Republican Lindsay ran on the Liberal ticket. Due to the multitude of tickets, Lindsay became Mayor again as a minority Mayor. He sits in City Hall rejected by a large majority of this city's voters. Lindsay is rated a good deal less than overwhelmingly popular. Even Goldberg himself privately admits that the Lindsay endorsement means little or nothing.

Timely Quotes

A riot on a campus is no different from a riot anywhere else.

—Ohio National Guard Commander Sylvester Del Corso, Saying the guard would continue to carry loaded weapons on riot duty.

One thing I've learned after living 100 years is that every man is different but husbands are all alike.

—Mrs. William E. Borah, widow of the senator from Idaho.

Behind the scenes and where there are "just us chickens," as political oldsters used to say, Mr. Goldberg is finding that the Lindsay action is counting most among those who are going to vote for him anyway.

Meanwhile, self-called Republican Lindsay has only contributed to the Republican problems. In the nationwide fights for House seats the largest Republican potential comes in New York State where Congressional redistricting under a Supreme Court mandate opens the way for as many as six Republican seats. But even so, Republican insiders see the control of the house safe for the Democrats. The insiders' eyes are on the Senate.

The G.O.P. needs seven seats to control the Senate. But Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell is nearly anathema to millions of upstate New York Republicans. Nominee Richard L. Ottinger is very serious competition to incumbent Goodell. So is the strong and growing New York State Conservative party, founded in 1962, and its attractive candidate, James L. Buckley.

The Conservative party insists that it is needed to exert a rightward pull on the state's Republican party comparable to the leftward pull of the Liberal party on the Democrats. And, pointing to Goodell, Buckley is very effectively registering that the G.O.P. here does not offer the voters genuine Republicans.

Few hereabout doubt that Lindsay is preening for the Presidency and, in fact, that he has his mind on little else. Yet in Lindsay's latest stroke of genius he has told the Democratic party that it cannot have him and he also made doubly sure that the Republican Party will not want him. No man aspiring to political hara-kiri could have done more to make himself a dead duck.

Editor, The Freeman:

People do care. The response to aid the Walter Smith family of seven on Lucas Avenue Extension made homeless by a recent fire has been very gratifying. Donations from many private individuals, of clothing, household articles, furniture, appliances, bedding and money have been received from residents within a 20 mile radius. The donations of furniture and appliances were picked up and delivered by members of the Binnewater Fire Company, Sixtus Leidel, Herb Holder, Sam Freer and Roland Drolet. Many area churches fire department auxiliaries and a motorcycle club in Glasco have offered additional clothing needed.

Articles of clothing were received from residents of the Hurley Reformed Church, the Hurley School, Ernest Myer, principal, The Binnewater Union Chapel and Christ the King Church in Stone Ridge. Three area businessess, Holly Tall Girl Shop, Lake Katrine, the Thrift Shop Main Street in Rosendale and Rudy's Auto Body Shop on Route 32 gave articles of clothing and furniture. Young children showed their concern for the Smith children by collecting donations of money. Children of the owner of the Rosendale Thrift Shop collected in Main Street, three young girls, Darlene DeGraff, Janet Sutton and Margaret Sutton took up a collection in the area of Walton's Lane in Hurley.

Members of the Youth Fellowship of Binnewater Chapel, Ronald Drolet, Vernon

Lewis and Walter Smith were responsible for the pickup and delivery of all clothing. Sandra Weigert and Gail Drolet aided Mrs. June Drolet in receiving telephone calls and additional clothing pickup. The news media was instrumental in the call for help. Mrs. Marianne Darrow of Hurley was especially helpful in the appeal for assistance and relaying many telephone messages.

The Smith family and their many animals are now living in temporary quarters in another building on the property where they lived. They are in the process of converting a three story building on the property into living quarters with the owners permission. Coal or oil burning stoves are still needed. Friends and neighbors have been assured by conversations heard from the Smith family that "people have been wonderful, wonderful, wonderful."

Extend Accolades

Editor, The Freeman:
Following is a copy of a letter sent to Governor Rockefeller regarding the school budget situation and to the County Legislators about the Ulster County Community College situation:

This Organization would like to commend you on your firm stand in the recent Ulster County Community College salary negotiations.
Your position of protecting the taxpayers while seeking to do justice to the people involved, is especially praiseworthy. This is particularly true in view of the apparently almost irresistible organized pressures brought to bear against you to capitulate and ignore the majority taxpayers' interests.

We have been, perhaps, guilty of being quick to criticize, and therefore, we think it only fitting at this time to extend our accolades.

Violent Switch

Editor, The Freeman:
According to a report in the September 29th edition of the New York Times, Senator Goodell stated he would send U. S. troops into war against Russia in Israel "if all other aid failed and the Russians intervened."

This seems a violent switch from his previously stated position on war—and raises the question as to whether his statement was just a political appeal to certain groups of voters, and the even greater question as to whether a man who holds such dangerous views should be continued in high public office.

Viet Issue Helping Dems Win Women in House Race

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 29—

Women are more Democratic than men in their choices for House candidates, due in considerable measure to their differing views on Vietnam.

During recent years women have tended to vote more Republican than men in both presidential and congressional elections. In the current races, however, the vote of women is helping to create the Democrats' 53-to-47 per cent lead nationally over GOP House candidates.

The Vietnam issue is not so controversial now as it was before President Nixon's Vietnamization plan went into effect. But the fact that the issue is not being widely debated does not mean that it is not influencing votes.

A higher proportion of women than men say that in casting their votes next Tuesday, the war will be "extremely" important to them. In all surveys women have been found to favor a faster rate of withdrawal from Vietnam than have men.

Following is the comparison of the vote of women and men with the trend since the last House elections in 1966. The undecided vote in the latest survey has been allocated equally to both parties.

	Latest Survey	1966 Elec.
D R	D R	D R
% %	% %	% %
Men	52 48	52 48
Women	54 46	52 48

The results reported today are based on national surveys with interviewing completed in mid-October. The survey percentages represent the choices of 2,118 likely voters interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected sampling locations.

The findings show the Democrats registering gains over 1966 among women, young adults and manual workers. The GOP, on the other hand, has picked up strength since the 1966 election among white collar workers, farmers and Roman Catholics.

Young Voters 3-to-2 On Democratic Side

Young voters (those in their twenties) traditionally vote more Democratic than their elders, but the difference today is greater than in 1966. In that election, young adults voted for Democratic candidates by a 55 to 45 per cent ratio. The spread now is 60-40, as seen below:

Under 30	60 40	55 45
30-49 years	54 46	53 47
50 & over	50 50	51 49

Persons in the professions or business remain in the GOP column. The white collar group—salesmen, clerks and others in similar occupations—has become still more Republican than in the 1966 elections. This trend, however, is counterbalanced by continued gains for the Democrats among blue collar workers, as seen below:

The Republicans have made steady gains among Catholic voters since the House elections in 1962, when 73 per cent of Catholics voted for Democratic candidates. The percentage dropped to 65 per cent in the 1966 elections and is currently at 62 per cent in the latest Gallup surveys.

Pilot Lifts His Plane, Dies of Heart Seizure

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — Capt. Herbert Shively, 49, had just lifted Trans World Airlines Flight 273 — Chicago to San Francisco — into the air when he slowly got up, stepped to a rear seat of the cockpit and drifted into unconsciousness.

Copilot Edward W. Connelly, 36, took over controls of the Boeing 707 jet, asked if there was a doctor among the 47 passengers and requested clearance to land at Cedar Rapids, at an altitude of 23,000 feet.

Dr. Mary Marshall, of Connelly said.

"It was very slow and orderly," the copilot added. "He slowly progressed to a worse condition, and when I realized he was incapable of communicating, I called for clearance to Cedar Rapids."

While Dr. Marshall attempted to diagnose the ailment, the flight engineer, Richard Preston, applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Shively. Dr. Marshall then took over the resuscitation while Preston massaged the captain's chest.

"Unfortunately, it was to no avail," Connelly said. Shively was removed from the Boeing 707 after landing at Cedar Rapids and taken to a hospital, where he was declared dead.

GM Blames $77 Million Loss On Recent Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. partly blames a $77 million third-quarter loss on its first quarterly deficit in 24 years — on a 45-day strike by the United Auto Workers in the United States and Canada.

GM also blamed longer shutdowns for 1971 model changeovers "because of extensive changes in certain regular-size models" for its first quarterly red ink since the first quarter of 1946, when operations also were shut down by a UAW strike.

Negotiations were to resume today between GM and the UAW. The strike has now surpassed the 44-day shutdown of the Ford Motor Co. in 1967, and has caused thousands of layoffs in automotive and supplier industries.

Elma's Tax

ELMA, N.Y. (AP) — For the seventh consecutive year, the Town of Elma will not levy a general town tax in 1971.

The Town Board has approved a preliminary budget of $256,254, up $16,514 over 1970.

Supervisor J. William Lexo said that because of increased sales-tax income and state aid there would be no need for a town tax in this rural area east of Buffalo.

Your Community Chest and You . . . The Red Cross Agency

In today's story about one of the 15 agencies of your Ulster County Community Chest we are going to describe an organization which might well be at your own door in time of need, or the door of one of your friends, neighbors, or relatives. To see the scene let's suppose that you are at home watching television. On your TV screen you see a mosaic of human misery and suffering as the various news sources report on the many disasters which occur over the globe each day. You see flashes of people being killed, injured, and left homeless by hurricanes, explosions, fires, storms, and floods. You and your family, safe in the comfort of your own living room, see these events, and tend to accept them as facts of life. You are inclined to regard the news accounts of these disasters as something quite remote, and certainly something far removed from your own personal life, and the lives of those about you. All too often we tend to forget the fact that real people are being directly affected by the tragedies involved in the news stories. Whether it's a single family burned out of their home in the State of California, or thousands left homeless by a Florida hurricane, it still means people suffering, and in need of assistance, the kind of assistance which can be offered by one of the agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest, the American Red Cross.

Let us, however, get back to you as a resident of Ulster County, and of your personal involvement with the Red Cross. While there is an excellent chance that the type of disaster which you see nightly on your television screen may never touch you personally, there is certainly no guarantee that some form of disaster might not strike tomorrow. Storms, fires, explosions, and floods have all left their mark on our county over the years. People right in your own community have died, been injured, or left homeless by some form of disaster at one time or another, and in many, many cases the Ulster County Chapter of your American Red Cross has been on the job. When disaster strikes the Red Cross is there to meet the immediate needs of those in trouble, and to assist the individual, or the family, recover as soon as possible from the effects of the disaster. The Red Cross is an agency dedicated to providing food, clothing, and shelter when needed in time of emergency. Whether it's a disaster many miles away, or one right in your own neighborhood, the American Red Cross volunteers are there when help is most needed, giving both immediate aid, as well as help long after the emergency has passed, and no repayment is ever asked or expected by the Red Cross for their assistance.

Civilian problems, of course, are not the only concern of your American Red Cross, there is also the vital role played by the Red Cross in bringing comfort to our men and women in the Armed Forces. Ask a returning Vietnam veteran, and he'll tell you about the Red Cross clubs in that war-torn land. The veteran will tell you about the place where he could go for a quiet game of ping pong, a chance to listen to some real American music, an opportunity to have a chat with a girl from home, or a place to just relax and forget the horrors of war for a little while. The American Red Cross

Veterans Increase

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Over one-seventh of New York State's residents are veterans, with more joining the group every year. Together with their families, veterans comprise almost half the state's population.

Just twenty-five years ago the state, at the end of World War II, created the Division of Veterans' Affairs to assist returning vets. The agency has been commemorated on its 25th anniversary by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who has proclaimed Oct. 22 as Division of Veterans' Affairs Day.

provides more than just a haven for the serviceman, however, they also act as a vital communications link between the serviceman and his family back home. The Red Cross worker always stands ready to arrange emergency leave if some problem arises which requires the serviceman to return home, and to the wounded G.I. lying on a cot in some military hospital, the Red Cross means something very special indeed. From the field hospital just behind the front lines in Vietnam, to an installation here at home, your Red Cross means a letter being written to some loved one, a cup of coffee, a phone call to home, or just a friendly smile when it is needed most. For almost a century your American Red Cross has offered a helping hand to those who have fought in our nation's wars. Within the memory of those living today who have served in the Armed Forces, from the mud-filled trenches of France, to the steaming jungles of Vietnam, the volunteers of the American Red Cross have always stood shoulder to shoulder with our country's servicemen, offering them recreation, a link with home, or hospital aid.

We hope that you will agree that both the civilian and the military work performed by your American Red Cross must go on, but if your Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is going to continue, it desperately needs your assistance. As one of the 15 that needed helping hand, can agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest, the Red Cross can receive your needed your generous contribution to help when you give your single the 1970 71 Ulster County gift to your Community Chest. Community Chest campaign. If some disaster should ever Remember, if you don't do it, strike your home, or your it won't get done.

Plattekill Forms Narcotics Council

PLATTEKILL The Town of Plattekill joined the growing list of Ulster County townships in the anti-drug movement when the Town Board appointed four individuals to the newly formed Town Narcotics Guidance Council.

In accordance with state established guidelines the board named a minister, the Rev. Herbert Detweiler; an attorney, Gerald Evans; a physician, Dr. Carlos Henriquez, and "two concerned citizens," James Pallen, a member of the Ulster County Legislature and Jack Sutton, to serve without compensation on the council.

The fledgling council will now have to be registered with the New York State Narcotics Guidance Control Commission and it will then be entitled to receive $1,000 in state aid to help formulate an anti-drug program in the township. The Town Board has set aside $500 for the council in its preliminary budget for 1971.

Additional financing of the council's work will be obtained from the town budget with matching funds provided by the state.

According to council spokesman, the Rev. Mr. Detweiler, the drug program in Plattekill will be primarily concentrated on prevention and no attempts will be made to set up a rehabilitative program.

In the nearby town of New Paltz, an attempt to set up a town supported program for the rehabilitation of drug users was rejected by the Town Board because of high costs and vocal public opposition.

'Funny Money' Printer: Never Contacted by DA

ELLENVILLE Bernard Wainer of Ellenville, printer of the "funny money" advertisement, handout distributed by Alex J. Nirenberg, Democratic candidate for district attorney, complained today that District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca "never contacted him to inform him that the printed replica of more than a half a dollar bill was illegal."

Wainer, president of the Rondout Valley Publishing Company in Ellenville, did say however that he was informed by John J. Powers of the U.S. Secret Service a week and a half ago that the advertisement is against the law and that the printing plates would be picked up by his department.

Wainer also revealed that the Secret Service had been in contact with Nirenberg prior to that time and that Powers, assistant to the special agent in charge of the U. S. Secret Service, asked him to cease and desist distribution of the bills.

Monday Torracca was asked by reporters about the circulation of the funny money and he said that his office had received complaints concerning the realistic-looking money but that prosecution in such cases seldom takes place.

Contract Talks Resume Tonight In Wawarsing

ELLENVILLE Contract negotiations between the Town of Wawarsing and the town's highway department will resume tonight according to Town Supervisor, Frank Harkin.

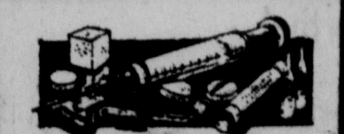

Tonight's session will be the fifth formal meeting between town officials and the highway workers. Since an impasse was reached, about eight weeks ago, in the formulation of a new contract to replace the current two year contract, which expires on January 1, 1971.

The highway employees, who are affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are asking for an approximately 20 per cent salary increase, time and one half for overtime work, full hospitalization and other fringe benefits.

The town, represented in the negotiations by the Town Board and town attorney, has offered the workers a cost of living wage increase and has not, at this point agreed to the union's fringe benefit proposals.

Despite the unresolved salary questions, Supervisor Harkin feels that the breach between the negotiating teams has narrowed and that the negotiators are "coming nearer to a settlement."

WAKE FOR MIDL — Marta Narus (rear) clad in a knee-length skirt, waves goodbye to "Obidi the MIDL" at a women's wear store in Chicago, Ill., during a mock wake for the MIDL. Shop, appropriately draped in black and decorated with thistles and mandrake roots, and displaying a mannequin wearing a MIDL in a wooden coffin, is owned by Mrs. Toni Nelson. Customers are invited to toast the deceased with Bloody Marys. Mrs. Nelson sent invitations to the funeral about a week ago but the idea came to her when the MIDL made its first appearance. Signs in shop say the "MIDL is the Edsel of 1970." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Located alongside the existing Elting Gymnasium near the playing fields, it completes an athletic complex convenient as a focal point between relocated loop road at the level of the major spaces and locker rooms. The total building area, approximately 140,600 square feet, is divided by two expansion

Three-Cornered Argument

Economy in Congressional Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-cornered political argument over whether the nation's economy is improving or getting worse under President Nixon's policies is enlivening the congressional campaign.

"There is no economic upturn in sight," AFL-CIO President George Meany, said this week, and added that things could get worse. He cited a 10 per cent rise in living costs and nearly 2 million more unemployed in Nixon's first 20 months in office.

Herbert Stein, top Nixon economic advisor, countered by saying the rate of inflation is declining, production output is no longer falling and the general economy is headed for recovery.

House Speaker John W. McCormack—a Democrat—chimed in by charging the administration had planned to withhold until after the Nov. 3 elections a new report showing five more major industrial cities with substantial unemployment of 6 to 8.9 per cent—compared with the national rate of 5.5 per cent.

The Labor Department confirmed McCormack's figures and released the report, but sharply denied any intent to withhold it. "There is absolutely no truth to that," a spokesman said. McCormack and congressmen from other affected states were given a few hours' advance notice in line with usual policy, he added.

The report added the Los Angeles-Long Beach, San Diego and San Bernardino-Riverside-Ontario areas of California, along with New Brunswick-Perth Amboy, N.J., and Lawrence-Haverhill, Mass., to the list of substantial jobless areas. That brings the total to 38 of the nation's 150 major industrial areas with substantial unemployment.

The report also removed two major areas from the list, Rome-Utica, N.Y., and Kenosha, Wis., because of improved employment, added 13 smaller areas to the substantial jobless list and one—Roundup, Mont.—as a persistent jobless area. It said a total of 626 large and small labor areas are now classified as substantial or persistent jobless areas.

Stein, in a speech prepared for a conference in London, renewed a Nixon administration claim that the 5.5 per cent national jobless rate—highest in nearly seven years—was itself overstated because the September job survey was done in the week including Labor Day. "An accident of the calendar," he called it.

Government officials have argued that many youths still listing themselves as looking for work during the Labor Day week quit job hunting and returned to school within a few days, artificially swelling the September unemployment total. Meany used his favorite epithet of "bunk" to describe administration claims of economic improvement.

"This is complete deception. It is plain, ordinary calculated deception. There has not been an improvement and there is no indication that there is going to be an improvement," said the 76-year-old leader of 13.6 million union members in an interview. The AFL-CIO primarily backs Democratic and liberal Republican candidates.

Stein criticized what he called the "exclusively political" discussion of economics. "By now, the performance of the economy has been precisely located on the political map. The performance has not been as good as we said it would be, but much better than we say it would have been if the Democrats were in office. The performance has been better than the Democrats said we would do, but not as good as they said they would have done if they had been in office," he said.

Winds Hit California

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Winds buffeted Southern California Tuesday with gusts clocked up to 79 miles per hour, causing widespread but minor damage in desert areas.

Trees and power lines were downed in San Bernardino and Riverside counties, and at least two mobile homes being towed along desert highways were overturned.

The winds also blew a service station under construction in Fontana off its foundation.

Leary Planning To Live in Algeria

CAIRO (UPI)—Dr. Timothy F. Leary, 50, reflected on the prison terms awaiting him in the United States and said he will never return to his native land. The American LSD advocate said he would become a Moslem and settle in Algeria. "I'm not going back," Leary said in an interview with UPI Wednesday night. "I figure if I return to the United States I'll go to prison for a total of 38 years."

Leary and three companions, including two Black Panther party leaders and a leader of the Youth International Party (Yippies) arrived in Cairo Tuesday, from Beirut, Egypt. They refused them entry, then granted them transit visas so they could visit Cairo en route back to Algeria.

"I'm going to embrace Islam and settle down with my wife in a better place than the United States, probably Algeria," he said.

Leary fled the Chino unit of the California prison system Sept. 13. He was serving 10 years for marijuana possession. Leary said he and his wife, Rosemary, who stayed in Algeria, had been granted asylum in Algeria along with Donald Cox, a Black Panther "field marshal," Martin Kenner, chairman of the Panther defense committee, and Jennifer Dohrn, a Yippie fund raiser.

Before he was interviewed in the bar of the Omar Khayyam Hotel, Leary drank green mint tea and swayed to Islamic religious music at Khan Khalili Bazaar as the group watched Egyptian craftsmen at work.

Leary declined to say how he escaped from prison but Miss Dohrn said her sister, Pernardine, helped him get away.

Bids Being Accepted For New Rosendale PO

ROSENDALE, N. Y. — The future construction of the long-awaited new post office in Rosendale was announced today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., who said that the opening of bids for the new facility will take place Dec. 4.

Fish received the word from the U. S. Post Office Department in Washington, D. C. which announced that bids should be sent to General Post Office, N. Y., Room 5022 to the attention of Alan M. Scisco.

Plans call for a 1,600 square foot postal facility to be located north of Main Street and west of the Fire House.

Specifications also call for a 100 square foot loading platform and 13,574 square feet of parking space. The lease will be for 10 years with four additional five-year renewals for a total of 30 years.

Specifications for the new bid was submitted and it was not accepted.

Late last year, former Rosendale Village Mayor William P. Curran contacted Congressman Fish urging that the planned construction be expedited. Curran said at that time "the post office stands among a row of condemned buildings, and is unfit for use as anything."

In making the announcement, Congressman Fish expressed his delight that the project is coming to realization. "It has been a long time in coming," he said, explaining that he is pleased that "the pressure we have been able to keep on the Post Office Real Estate Department has proved fruitful."

The congressman said that the present antiquated and uncomfortable working surroundings for post office employees are typical of many years of the Hudson Valley. He said that the recently passed post office reform measure, which was supported by him and passed, will increase activity in enlarging and constructing post offices to replace inadequate facilities.

"We must build for the future growth of this area, especially in the Rosendale-New Paltz section where a population increase is expected. We must be prepared to supply needed services."

Fagan 'Tips' Drivers

KINGSTON Chief of Police Francis J. Fagan explained that his "cool" has to do with his department's winter traffic problems — untangling traffic snarls and keeping essential services moving. The chief recalled that winter's first major storm usually catches drivers by surprise, and unprepared.

"Summer driving habits are the first casualties," he pointed out. "Drivers fail to compensate soon enough for winter's differences. The results are blocked traffic lanes and dangerous tie-ups on Kingston's streets and highways."

Winter's two disabling tricks are reduced visibility and inadequate traction. Both, Chief Fagan pointed out, requires careful attention to driving skills as well as to the vehicle and its equipment.

Smooth driving, without sudden changes in either speed or direction, is the key to good winter driving according to the chief. This means slower than normal speeds and more distance between your car and the car ahead for an extra margin of control and for more time to react.

As for the vehicle, Chief Fagan suggested a basic checklist recommended by the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the National Safety Council.

Fagan notes eight recommendations:

Engine trouble — Include inspection of battery, generator and electrical system for dependable starts and to prevent stalls during sub-zero weather.

Anti-freeze — Check and replace if necessary. Most permanent types of anti-freeze should be drained and replaced every two years.

Tires — It takes good tread to grip snow and ice. Snow tires, if not worn, provide better traction than regular tires in snow — but are less effective in stopping on ice. Studded snow tires are recommended on all four wheels to improve braking as well as steering control on ice.

Tire chains — Reinforced tire chains are best for severe winter conditions. They give needed traction for pulling through deep snow and climbing icy hills. They afford better control for stopping and starting.

Brakes — Have them checked and adjusted periodically. Grabbing brakes are sure to throw you into a skid on slippery pavement.

Exhaust — System must be tight to eliminate dangers of deadly carbon monoxide.

Windshield — Defroster must be capable of clearing glass of ice and fog quickly. Wiper blades dried by summer heat need replacing. Washers need proper anti-freeze solution to prevent water squirted onto glass from freezing into a sheet of ice.

Lights — Headlights, taillights and directional signals should be in perfect order. Clean all lenses frequently.

"We follow these recommendations thoroughly with pre-season checks on all of our department and emergency vehicles," Fagan said. "We hope all Kingston and area drivers will follow the same 'cool' thinking we do."

Police Seize Man Charged in Cop Shooting

CARMEL, N.Y. (UPI) — Ronnie Lee Bolton, 25, suffering from two bullet wounds, was captured by police as he emerged from some bushes along Route 6 late Wednesday and charged with assault in the shooting of a policeman.

PAW Melodrama Slated for Dec.

Will hero, Ned, be able to save his sister in time? Will innocent Flossie be snatched away by the villain? Will Ned and Flossie ever find their real parents? Gala opening night is December 31, with additional performances scheduled for January 2, 8, 9, 10, 15, 16, and 17.

Spreading Halloween Magic Trick or Treat Program in Kingston for UNICEF

UNICEF SELLING DAYS in New Paltz for the benefit of UNICEF will be held November 3 at Barkers, November 4 at Barkers, both Grand Unions, New Paltz branch of the Highland Bank and the State of New York National Bank. On November 6 the sale will be repeated at the Grand Union and Barkers. On November 7 at Barkers only. Pictured here is "Sledding" a nostalgic childhood scene painted by U. S. Artist Doris Vallejo. Miss Vallejo has contributed this painting to the 1970 UNICEF drive to help needy children all over the world.

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Not all of today's news is bad.

One of the all too few pluses is the work of the United Nations Children's Fund whose health, nutrition and education programs are helping to win the long-range wars against hunger, disease and poverty that afflict the children of the world. The expanding efforts of UNICEF on behalf of children in 112 developing countries deserve the support of all peace-loving citizens.

National UNICEF DAY is October 31 by Presidential Proclamation. It's also Halloween, when millions of our own children participate in the annual Trick or Treat for UNICEF collection, a uniquely American celebration of the work of the Children's Fund.

For a number of years, the traditional TRICK OR TREAT visiting by the youngsters in the Kingston area has been given new meaning. A group of them with orange containers have collected for others rather than themselves and last year turned over more than $1,000 to the United Nations Children's Fund.

The TRICK or TREATERS will be out on the streets of Kingston and surrounding areas on Halloween again this year representing children's and youth groups of churches and synagogues in the area and cooperating organizations.

Mrs. Harry F. Vance, representing the New York State Council of Churches, after attending a UNICEF workshop in Ecuador, said, "I believed in the UNICEF program before, but since seeing the work on the field my interest is even greater. I assure you that the money is not being wasted."

Started four years ago in Kingston by the Council of Churches, the response has grown to the point where literally thousands of children are using the orange containers.

Those who are close to the program say, "The task is enormous and our help is needed to bring life-saving food and medicine and an opportunity for education to millions of deprived children."

In another part of Ulster County, civic, religious and women's groups will be joining together to sell UNICEF greeting cards and gifts for the year. This four-day UNICEF sale will be conducted in New Paltz.

The sale will begin on Election Day, Nov. 3 at Barkers with other sales booths at the lower Grand Union and the new Grand Union on Upper Main Street on Wednesday, Nov. 4 and again on Friday, Nov. 6.

A committee for UNICEF will be at the State of New York National Bank and at the New Paltz Branch of the Highland Bank supporting the UNICEF cause.

Miss Lucille Stephens is general chairman of the New Paltz UNICEF drive assisted by Mrs. John Price, Mrs. Richard Migliorato, Mrs. Raymond Snider, Mrs. Gus Felahi and Mrs. John McCarthy.

Little witches and goblins will be knocking at doors in the Rifton area also this Friday and Saturday. The collection there is sponsored by the Auxiliary to the Anna Devine School.

Contrary to beliefs in certain areas, UNICEF does not give money to governments. It provides supplies or equipment and occasionally stipends (scholarships) for the training of nurses and midwives. UNICEF program officers and field officers who are on the spot administering the projects check the books and carefully scrutinize all aspects of the program as best as is humanly possible. They see to it that the assistance given goes to the people.

At the present time UNICEF is helping 112 countries and is involved in 500 projects in those countries. Of these, only two — Cuba and Yugoslavia — support Communist ideology and are receiving health services and science educational aid. Their programs, however, are equivalent to less than one half of one per cent of UNICEF allocations for 1970-71. That still leaves close to $900 million worth of services being distributed to 110 countries throughout the world. And according to the UNICEF, which has the endorsement of President Richard Nixon, Communist governments working within the framework of the United Nations contributed a total of $1.5 million in 1969 to UNICEF. That is more than allocated to countries supporting their ideology.

It should also be remembered that an agreement between the receiving country and UNICEF is worked out very carefully. Each country contributes on the average two and a half dollars for every dollar's worth of service extended by UNICEF. It is not a one-way street but a two-way with the heaviest burden borne by the country receiving the aid on behalf of its people.

UNICEF means helping children regardless of race, color or creed. It means giving a helping hand during such crises as the Nigerian civil war and the Peruvian earthquake. It means long-range programs for better food, medical care and schooling.

It's easy to make a child smile. A good meal, the relief of pain, the joy of learning, the knowledge that people care — any one of these is enough to produce that spontaneous burst of human sunshine which gives promises of a happier future.

Kingston area children want to indulge in a little Halloween Magic. It's far better than destroying personal property, looting, throwing Molotov bombs and smoking pot.

Halloween can be magical because for a single penny UNICEF can supply the vaccine to protect a child against smallpox or tuberculosis; because one nickel buys the antibiotic ointment to cure a case of trachoma; because a dime translates into seed to sow 200 feet of vitamin-rich carrot rows; an educational kit for a primary school child.

Tempting Treats Mean No Tricks For Festive Halloween Hostess

When ghosts and goblins, witches and masked men arrive for that festive Halloween party, welcome them with a banquet of goodies designed to please the most discriminating youngster.

Home Economist Betsy Sheehan of American Dairy Association has prepared some special Halloween treats, a sure-fire way to ward off all "magic spells and curses" and put sorcerers in a happy frame of mind.

Halloween Cookies

One Cup (two sticks) butter
One and one-half cups sifted confectioners sugar
One egg
One teaspoon vanilla
Red and yellow food coloring
Orange Halloween candies
Chocolate icing
Two and One-half cups sifted all-purpose flour
One teaspoon baking soda
One teaspoon cream of tartar
One-quarter teaspoon salt

Miniature Pumpkinburgers

For Children:
Ground beef
Small, round dinner rolls, cut in half and buttered
Deep yellow American Cheese, sliced

Form ground beef into tiny meatballs and flatten to burgers. Fry in a salted skillet, turning once till done. Cut the cheese slices into rounds just to fit the tops of the burgers. With point of a sharp, small knife, cut out eyes and a mouth from each cheese round. Place cheese on each burger and place under broiler just to soften cheese slightly. Serve on buttered, small dinner rolls.

Pumpkin Ice Cream Cups

Vanilla ice cream
Waffle ice cream cups
Prepared pumpkin pie filling
Whipped cream and chopped nuts

Mix together, softened vanilla ice cream with pumpkin pie filling. (Use almost equal portions or add pie filling just to desired taste). Refreeze until solid. Serve scoops of ice cream in waffle cups — topped with whipped cream and sprinkled with nuts.

Hobgoblin Burgers

Four brown 'n serve french rolls
Softened butter
Four teaspoons prepared mustard
Eight teaspoons ketchup
Sixteen tomato slices
Onion rings
Eight slices of Cheddar cheese

Two pounds ground beef
One teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
Cheddar slices for garnish

Serves Eight
Split rolls in half, butter and lightly toast under broiler. Spread each half with one-half teaspoon mustard and one teaspoon ketchup. Top each half with two tomato slices and a few onion rings. Cover with cheese slice. Mix together beef, salt and pepper. Divide mixture into eight equal parts. Shape each into an oblong patty and place one on top of each roll, spreading to edge of roll and sealing together to prevent cheese from running out while cooking. Place on baking sheet. Bake in 350 over for 25 minutes. Additional cheese may be used as garnish on top, cut out in ghost or cat shapes.

Chocolate Filled Orange Cups

One orange half, per person
Chocolate ice cream
Chocolate shot
Candy corn or other Halloween candy

Cut oranges in half and remove inside sections and membranes. Return orange sections to the cup and refrigerate. At serving time, place a scoop of chocolate ice cream in the cup and sprinkle with chocolate shot. Place candy corn to make eyes and a mouth for this Halloween fun dessert.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise:
I entertain rather frequently, and, whether it's our personal friends or my husband's business acquaintances, I never leave anything to memory.

After I have served dinner to guests I always write in my little blue book, who was served and exactly what was served in great detail—from the hors d'oeuvres to the dessert.

I make notes as to the guests' preferences in food and also jot down any diet peculiarities of any of the guests.

I always date it and I am never at a loss when I plan to entertain these particular guests again because I know what I served the last time, and when it was.

Makes entertaining at dinner so much easier and sure makes for a more relaxed hostess.

Mrs. H. Janish

You know, I wouldn't mind having a page of your little blue book. Betcha dinner invitations at the Janish home are very sought after.

A good hostess is a thoughtful one, and, baby doll, you sound like you fit that description to a T.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
I think nylon net is the greatest invention since the wheel!

A Reader

Dear Heloise:
My enthusiasm for this brainstorm has withstood weeks of testing and I still find it just super in every way.

I have always used two of those apple-shaped pin cushions which were always in a frustratingly messy mass of tangles.

One day I removed all those threaded needles and solved my problem thusly:
Pulled the thread in each needle evenly so it was doubled, inserted the needle into the cushion as if taking a giant basting stitch. Then wound the thread around the point of the needle to the eye until all the thread was wound and the result was an elliptical look (shaped like an eye).

One cushion is used for my sewing threads and the other is for needles threaded with heavier strands such as used on buttons and in darning.

I unwind the thread on the needle I wish to use and there is no twist or tangle to fight with.

Your pin cushions are so satisfyingly pretty this way that I urge your readers to spend a little time on this most rewarding project.

Mrs. Carol Beer.

Dear Heloise:

Here's my secret for putting on a very snug fitting girdle:

Put the girdle on wrong side out and upside down! When you have it above the waist, pull down, grasping the bottom edge of the girdle.

For some reason it is so much easier and quicker than putting it on the conventional way.

A Reader

Dear Heloise:

My five-month-old daughter recently received a little jumping swing as a gift. It has a spring on it, and hangs in a doorway, with her feet touching the floor.

As we have a dog who is not used to the baby, the swing posed a problem. I did not want the dog to be able to reach the baby.

I hung the swing in a wide doorway, and put the play pen under it.

My baby is safe from the "dog kissing," the dog has the freedom of the house, and I am confident that both are happy with this arrangement.

No Time for Emotion—Bud Grant's Formula

Today's Sport Parade
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whom were you watching in all that rain and mud ... Gary Cuozzo ... Alan Page ... Dave Osborn ... Bill Brown ... or Paul Krause? They all did well in that 13-3 soaking the Minnesota Vikings inflicted upon the Los Angeles Rams, but the man who held my interest on the TV tube Monday night didn't even get into the ball game.

He was Bud Grant, the Vikings' coach. The thing that got me about him was how he just stood there in one spot all the time, hardly even moving, despite the rain, which was coming down harder than it does in one of those Dracula movies.

Restraint like that takes practice and patience.

'Can't Afford Emotion'

Not everybody can show that kind of rigid self-control. Bud Grant can. When his No. 1 quarterback decided he wouldn't play unless he got more money, Bud Grant wasn't happy but he didn't panic. He merely promoted his No. 2 quarterback and now hardly anybody mentions the old No. 1 anymore. Hardly anybody outside Boston, anyway.

"I don't feel I can afford the luxury of being emotional," he has said about his great stony image. That doesn't mean he can't move when he has to. He was in the Vikings' office at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning looking at the films of the Rams game.

Prepping For Lions

A little later he attended a luncheon at which he talked about this Sunday's opponent, the Detroit Lions.

"Without demeaning any of those teams we've played, they're the best we've come up to at this point," Grant said of the Lions, whose 5-1 record is the same as the Vikings.

"They're totally at the top of their game now. We've won our last four games with them but I'm certain Detroit has been thinking about us since the first day they got to camp."

When Grant got through with his speech, he returned to his team. This was Tuesday, a few hours after the Vikings beat the Rams. Ordinarily that would've meant a day off. The Vikings practiced.

Joe Schmidt works the Lions hard, too, and practice sometimes doesn't mean a thing, but I just keep thinking about Bud Grant in all that rain, about how those Vikings don't give an inch in any weather, and I have to go with them to beat the Lions in Detroit Sunday.

Other Picks

As for Sunday's other games, I like:

Oakland over Kansas City—You keep hearing about Daryle Lamonica's back spasms and keep seeing him doing fine. San Francisco over Green Bay—The Forty Niners have the formula. John Brodie does the passing, Ken Willard the rushing and Bruce Gossett the kicking.

Cleveland over San Diego—Even Bill Nelsen's wife wouldn't want him to quit now the way he's going.

St. Louis over Houston—Jerry Rhyme did okay against San Diego but he's no Fran Tarkenton yet.

Miami over Baltimore—the Colts could be a little over-eager in this one.

Dallas over Philadelphia—The Cowboys are doing everything right and the Eagles are doing everything ... well ... you know. The Bengals have one thing over the Steelers, quickness, and in a meeting of these two titans that should be about enough.

Denver over Washington—Nobility stops Sonny Jurgensen but the Broncos could slow him down.

New York Giants over New York Jets—It's tough to do anything without your quarterback.

Boston over Buffalo—Joe Kapp to Ron Sellers should do it.

Atlanta over Chicago—Bears' running game isn't much with Gale Sayers and Craig Banham out for the season.

Monday Cincinnati over Pittsburgh—The Bengals have one thing over the Steelers, quickness, and in a meeting of these two titans that should be about enough.

The Colleges Yale and Dartmouth, a couple of unbeaten get together at New Haven, Conn. I don't think either will be embarrassed, but I like Yale to win.

East—Pitt over Syracuse, West Virginia over Penn State, Cornell over Columbia, Princeton over Brown and Army over Boston College.

Midwest—Ohio State over Northwestern, Michigan State over Indiana, Missouri over

Kansas State, Oklahoma over Iowa State, Michigan over Wisconsin and Notre Dame over Navy.

South—Auburn over Florida, Georgia over South Carolina, Tennessee over Wake Forest, Kentucky over North Carolina State and Duke over Georgia Tech.

Southwest—Texas over SMU, Air Force over Arizona, Arkansas over Texas A&M, Baylor over TCU and Rice over Texas Tech.

West—Nebraska over Colorado, Stanford over Oregon State, Southern California over California, Oregon over Washington and UCLA over Washington State.

NCAA Sets Down KSU and Tulsa

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association has placed Kansas State University and the University of Tulsa on three-year probation for violating recruiting and financial rules for student-athletes.

The NCAA council, competing a three-day working session Wednesday, also reprimanded and censured Jacksonville (Fla.) University because 7-2 center Artis Gilmore was paid $75 a day in an antipoverty program in the summer of 1969.

The council, the policy-making arm of the NCAA, restored Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va., and LaSalle College in Philadelphia to good standings. Marshall was on a one-year probation for football violations and LaSalle two years for basketball team infractions.

In announcing the censure of Jacksonville University, which has no effect on possible post-season tournament play by the school, Thomas C. Hansen, NCAA director of public relations, said the organizations would from now on take a hard look at government-funded aid programs for disadvantaged youth if they involved athletes.

The University of Tulsa and Kansas State University will be on probation until Jan. 1, 1973. A spokesman for the council said the schools cannot take part in post-season bowl games until the period of probation is over and neither school can take part in NCAA-sanctioned television programs until the probation periods are up.

The council said Tulsa violated rules governing financial assistance, ethical conduct, recruiting and out-of-season football practice. It found "these violations to be flagrant and willful on the part of several members of the ... football coaching staff."

The council cited Kansas State for breaking rules of financial assistance, ethical conduct, eligibility for NCAA championship events and recruiting.

'200' Win For Cagle

MIDDLETOWN The other drivers might as well stay home when the Eastern States race is held at Orange County Fair Speedway in 1972, that is if Will Cagle shows up.

Cagle took the event in 1966, came back to win again in 1968, and, this week, won once more to keep his "even year streak" alive.

Driving the Al Waring No. 17 because his own No. 24 had been wrecked in a qualifying race, Cagle caught Rags Carter in Farrioulo No. 73 on the 149th lap and was never headed. Cagle's most serious opposition came from Bobby Botcher who finished second.

The top finishers were: Will Cagle, Bobby Botcher, Gerald Chamberlain, Bob Russell, Whip Mulligan, Bob Malzahn, Rags Carter, Buzzy Reutiman, Bill Wilson, Harry Peek, Ed Ortiz, Sonny Strupp, Ed Pieniazek, Rich Ricci, Butch Wood, Dave Polczar, Jim Malone, Vince Pantuso, Jack Zuidema, and Stan Ploski.

Ski Officials Session Slated

NEW PALTZ A training course for potential ski race officials will be held Nov. 10, at the VFW Hall, Route 32, New Paltz Village, 8:30 p.m. Frank Andrew, president of the Rip Van Winkle Ski Council has scheduled the course for those in the region interested with the organizing and running of ski races.

The instructors for the course will be: Dr. C. F. Goffredi, Kingston; Don DeKoskie, Port Ewen and Bill Decker, Hyde Park. All are United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association Certified Alpine Officials.

The course will be presented in three sections. The first, Nov. 10—How to organize, plan, register, entries, establish seeding list; second, Dec. — course setting, starting, gate-keeping, timing; third, Jan. — score and wrapup, establish FIS points, handicap system, establish final finish order.

HOCKEY GUNMAN — Doug Harvey, former star defenseman in the NHL chats with Lawyer Jake Dunlop (R) after receiving suspended sentence for carrying dangerous weapon. Arrested in routine police search at Ottawa airport under new war measures act, after police found a loaded .357 Magnum revolver and toy pistol in his brief case, Harvey claimed he carried the gun due to tense situation in Montreal, where he ran as candidate in the recent civic election. Still Seeks Second Straight Pro Title

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LAS VEGAS, NEV. (AP)

Ken Still, golf's most happy fella, went after a second consecutive pro title today in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational tournament.

Still, a lively, fast-talking veteran, snapped a season long slump last week when he fought off Lee Trevino and Bert Yancey on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff for the $30,000 first prize in the Kaiser International in Napa, Calif.

The 35-year-old bachelor has not played a round since then. He skipped the two-day pro-am preceding the start of the Sahara in favor of a rest.

"I don't think I'd ever been so tired in my life," Still said. "A lot of it was burning up nervous energy. That's what my doctor told me."

"I never worked so hard in my life. You see, I'd never led for three rounds before and then on Sunday I never had more than a one-shot lead so there was no place for me to let up." Still, winner of two events and about $72,000 last season, had been in a slump most of the year, winning only $27,000 prior to his Kaiser triumph.

"It all goes back to the winter when I cracked my ribs," he said. Still suffered the injury in an auto accident early in the season.

"I tried to come back too soon," he said. "I was just off the tour about six weeks and then I started favoring the ribs and got my swing all fouled up."

In the meantime, Dave Hill and Chi Chi Rodriguez prepared written reports to be submitted to PGA commissioner Joe Dey concerning their argument on the course during the final round last week.

Hill complained of Rodriguez' clowning tactics on the course while Rodriguez charged Hill with unsportsman-like conduct. They were asked by tournament director Jack Tuthill to make reports to Dey.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus and Masters titleholder Billy Casper were the pre-tourney favorites for the $20,000 top prize according to Las Vegas' legal bookies.

Oneonta: Soccertown USA

By BOB WHITEMORE

ONEONTA, N. Y. (AP) — As Green Bay, Wis., is to professional football, so Oneonta, with a population just over 13,000, has established itself as "College Soccertown, U.S.A."

That reputation is firmly based on the team and fans of tiny Hartwick College, enrollment 1,550.

The Hartwick team has been voted second best in the nation by a poll of soccer coaches from coast to coast. Only St. Louis University was rated better.

This week, the New York State college coaches named the team the best in the state, continuing a run in first place that began last year.

This soccer David has slain nine straight Goliaths with out a loss and given up just a single point so far this season.

In fact, Hartwick has not had a losing season since 1958, nor a loss on its home field since 1963. And the Warriors play a big league schedule.

After each of the past two seasons, the Hartwick team made it into the quarter-finals of the NCAA national championships before getting bumped by one point.

Soccer may not be a big-time sport on most campuses, but in Oneonta the team regularly draws upwards of 5,000 to its weekend games, despite established football schools like Syracuse and Cornell near enough to compete for sports fans' attention.

Fans come from Pennsylvania, New England and Canada to see the Warriors play, but the real impact of the sport's popularity is clearly felt right in town.

An amateur team has been started to represent the city in the Empire State League and a "little league" soccer program is in full swing with 15 teams established and more youngsters clamoring to get in.

Sporting goods stores in Oneonta say they are now selling 10 to 15 times more soccer equipment than 10 years ago.

Hartwick home games sport all the trimmings of 1940s college football movies, including fireworks, banners, cannons after each goal, bouncing cheerleaders and incessant chants of "We're Number One!"

Still, the Hartwick success story is built on a low-budget offering would be stars even less than the NCAA allowed room, board, tuition, books and fees.

The school's yearly expenditures on the team come to $14,000 — as boosters note, about what record Hartwick booters have amassed must go to David Haase, who coached the team from 1960 until he left to become coach of the professional Atlanta Chiefs, and Al Miller, who replaced him.

Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes spends on phone calls. Most of the credit for the fine el.

Ed. note: Miller had been soccer coach at New Paltz State prior to going to Hartwick. Miller's arrival coincided with that of Athletic Director Jim Konstanty. Konstanty was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1950 when he led the Philadelphia Phillies into the World Series.

Konstanty says, "Competition for good players is very keen

Miller, however, says, the "Hartwick word is out" in soccer circles and high school coaches call him when they have a promising boy who might like to play for the Warriors.

Often, he says, he will take one of his current players along to visit the youngster and help sell his parents.

Right now Miller's main goal is to get beyond the NCAA quarter-finals, but that is not getting any easier — partly because of the great "sell" Hartwick has used on the city of Oneonta.

Crosstown rival Oneonta State has just crept into the state

PUCK STEALER — Rangers' Ron Stewart (12) takes the puck away from the Rangers' goal during action against the Detroit Red Wings in New York City, Wednesday. Looking on are Rangers' Tim Horton (3) and Wings' Alex Delvecchio (10). New York won, 4-1, to stretch their unbeaten string to seven games.

Hawks Running But Not Away

By United Press International

The expected runaway of the Chicago Black Hawks in the West Division of the National Hockey League hasn't materialized as yet.

After winning the regular season title in the much tougher East Division last season, Chicago was figured a shoo-in for another pennant when it switched to the expansion West. And while the Black Hawks are in first place, they haven't shown signs of running away from the field.

The Minnesota North Stars, behind rookie goalie Gilles Gilbert, edged Chicago, 2-1, Wednesday night. In three games against West rivals this season, the Black Hawks have won only once, tied one and lost one. Their first-place lead was cut to a single point Wednesday night as the St. Louis Blues tripped the winless California Golden Seals, 3-2.

Elsewhere, the New York Rangers took over undisputed possession of first place in the East by beating the Detroit Red Wings, 4-1, while the Montreal Canadiens were dropping a 6-2 decision at Toronto, and the Pittsburgh Penguins beat the Los Angeles Kings, 5-3.

Rookie Buster Harvey provided the North Stars with their triumph by registering his first NHL goal at 10:49 of the third period. Gilbert took care of his end with 30 saves.

St. Louis built a 3-0 lead on goals by Barclay Plager, Christian Bordeleau and George Morrison and then held tight when the Seals rallied for third-period scores by Gary Croteau and Gary Jarrett.

Vic Hadfield scored two goals, the second one coming 32 seconds after Bill Fairbairn had put the Rangers ahead for good at 9:22 of the final period, as New York stretched its unbeaten string to seven games.

Ron Ellis, Guy Trottier, Dave Keon and Norm Ullman all scored for Toronto in the third period as the Maple Leafs snapped a four-game losing streak.

Pittsburgh got four goals in the first period—two of them by Ken Schinkel—in its triumph over Los Angeles.

No Clear-Cut Favorites In the Tennessee Races

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—There are no clear-cut favorites as Tennessee's superheated campaigns for senator and governor go down to the wire. Senate liberal Albert Gore is battling for his political life against hawkish Rep. William Brock, and Democrat John Jay Hooker Jr., making his second try for the governorship, is enmeshed in an equally tough fight against Republican Winfield Dunn.

Policies of the Nixon administration figure in both contests, particularly those concerning the Vietnam War. Tennessee Valley Authority electricity rates and inflation. Hooker, 40, an attorney-businessman from Nashville with ties with the Kennedys and Brock, 39, an heir to a Chattanooga candy fortune and an adamant Nixon advocate, appeared to have healthy leads early in the campaigns.

But Gore through constant espousal of his philosophy of populism and Dunn by his well-organized efforts to throttle Hooker with a pincer movement from East Tennessee and West Tennessee have certainly narrowed the perhaps closed support in his bid to become the second.

The 62-year-old Gore, a leading critic of Nixon's war policies, has been campaigning hard for more than a year in this politically changing border state where Republicans now control the other U.S. Senate seat, four of the nine seats in Congress, and the lower House of the state legislature.

Howard Baker Jr. in 1966 became Tennessee's first popularly elected Republican senator since Reconstruction, and enforcement and local control of Brock has strong White House schools.

Both Nixon and Vice President Agnew have campaigned in Tennessee in behalf of Brock and other GOP candidates, a move which Gore says supports his claim that he is the President's "No. 1 target" in the South.

In a speech at Johnson City last week, the President said Gore had voted against him on the "great issues." He praised Brock as a man who stands for fiscal responsibility, law enforcement and local control of schools.

The state's biggest political surprise this election year has been Dunn, a Memphis dentist largely unknown outside his hometown until he pulled an upset in the five-man Republican primary in August.

Dunn, ignoring the odds, built a strong campaign organization with Baker's help and is counting on heavy support from traditionally Republican East Tennessee and his populous home county of Shelby to provide a big boost toward what he hopes will be the winning margin.

Dear Abby

Has Eyes for Elders

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old boy and I love to go out with married women from 20 to 30 years old. I have come awfully close to getting caught by their husbands. I don't know what is wrong with me. I take such terrible chances.

Single girls do not turn me on at all. I even talked to a doctor about this once and he told me I was seeking "motherly love," but I can tell you like I told him, it is not true. I worry about myself. What can you do for a love crazy guy like me?

TAKING CHANCES
DEAR TAKING: Apparently you like to live dangerously. Maybe you want to get caught and get that beating you think you deserve. I can advise you to steer clear of married women, but you already know that. Professional counseling at a mental health clinic could straighten you out before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: After a 3-year separation I just became divorced. I have five children and live on welfare. My ex-husband drives a Cadillac and vacationed in Ireland last year—enough said.

Now that my divorce is final, all I hear is, "Why don't you dress up and sit on the front porch? You'll never get a husband if you don't fix yourself up, wear your dresses shorter and do something with your hair."

Am I such an oddity because I am not husband hunting?

NOT LOOKING
DEAR NOT: Yes. But I don't blame you for being, gun-shy. You might get another dud like your ex-husband.

What's your problem? You'll suffer Abby: I had oral surgery recently, and my doctor gave me a prescription for some 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, pain medicine. I had it filled for a personal reply enclose at a local pharmacy. Took it every three hours, but it had no effect.

The next morning the pharmacist called and told me to return the medicine as he had given me the wrong one. It seems two prescriptions were filled at the same time with identical last names. I had not noticed the wrong first name on the bottle until his call. I was told my prescription was given to a young girl. She vomited from my pills. I didn't feel any ill effects from her medicine because it was for an infection.

Someone suggested we sue the pharmacy, but I don't think we should because the medicine did me no harm.

Maybe if you printed my letter it would make pharmacists a little more careful in the future. It would also warn people to read the name on the prescription before taking the medicine.

Others may not be as lucky as I was.

MRS. R. M.
DEAR MRS. R. M.: Thank you for sharing your experience. It could save a lawsuit. And more important, a life.

DEAR ABBY: You had something in your column which caught my eye. I quote, "CONFIDENTIAL TO 50 YEARS OLD TODAY — AND DE- PRESSED: Cheer up. Fifty is the 'old age' of youth, but it is also the 'youth of old age.' You have a lot of living to do." To that, I say "bravo!" But the real key to the good life after 50 is what you did in the 30 years before 50.

CLIMBING MOUNTAINS

DEAR CLIMBING: Congratulations. You'll never be over the hill.

What's your problem? You'll suffer Abby: I had oral surgery recently, and my doctor gave me a prescription for some 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, pain medicine. I had it filled for a personal reply enclose

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

This is a good day to investigate and find the answers to many problems that have been puzzling you, but you will need more information. You are determined to put in motion a plan you have been considering for a long time, but it would be wiser to wait until tomorrow before actually doing so.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Know what your responsibilities are and how to handle them quickly and efficiently. Keep promises made to others, especially your mate. Avoid extravagance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
Know just where your efforts with associates are heading and get on the right path, instead of being so slipshod about them. Settle any differences you may have had with another. Be careful of your grammar.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
Once you know that you are using your efforts in the right direction, you can discharge many chores that have been lagging. Complete whatever co-workers expect of you. Stop putting words in other persons' mouths.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
Put worry aside and get to those social events that ease your worries, and give you a better perspective on how to eliminate them. Put that specialized talent to work. Show that you are witty.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Find some way to eliminate that resentment kin have toward you. Analyze what you might have done that was wrong. Don't give any power to any problems of a personal nature you may have. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
You have many routine duties to handle and an early start sees them behind you very quickly. Take care of correspondence you have been putting aside. Make better plans for the future in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
Make an effort to clear up all your bills and plan how to live more intelligently in the future so that you need not worry so much, or so often. Plan how to improve your real estate. Don't jump into it without planning first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
You had better delve right into all those personal responsibilities and get them behind you. You have some trouble that good friends can help you overcome. Get to bed early tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Some serious concentration on how your affairs and life are heading will show you where you can make improvements. Have a talk with some expert who can give you fine ideas. Having more self-confidence is vital now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Making certain you keep promises you have made to others is important now, or you could get into trouble. Don't delay. Accept that invitation to a group meeting that appeals to you and to which you have been hinting at for some time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Handling all those outside responsibilities that show you are conscientious is right. Do whatever will improve your credit rating. Relax in the evening and have a good time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
While you are finishing old projects, take the time to study new ones. It is important you support loyal allies, too. Get busy with your correspondence later. Don't keep others waiting unnecessarily.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will have much determination. Give finest moral training early in life so that your child will use this fine quality to his advantage. Give your offspring a chance to express himself, although there may be a clash of wills. Adding a language or more to the educational career is wise.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

No. Gwendolyn, an executive's suite isn't his current girl friend.

If there's a skeleton in your closet, it's about time to dust it off for Halloween.

Even a city dweller can tell when fall is here—if he has kids. About the middle of October his bank balance turns bright red.

Ask any psychiatrist: It pays for people to worry.

Neighbor of ours says he's staying in town. Went south for the winter last year, and that's exactly where it caught up with him.

Disgruntled shopmate says that the latest thing in fall fashions is his girl friend.

About all that some fellows can keep under the hat is the fact that they're bald.

Despite the fact that there are a lot of Mrs. Cupid's aim is well-nigh perfect.

It's bad manners to quarrel before company; also, prudent. The visitors may take your spouse's side of the argument.

You'll always have plenty of collateral if you go out to borrow trouble.

WHY WE SAY

TELL A GAG

MISTAKE: A joke was referred to as a gag in show business because if an actor would say the wrong lines, another actor would break in with a joke to quiet his fellow performer. The joke was a gag or silencer.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TWO YEARS: (Q.) I've written twice before but got no answers. I broke off with my boy friend. I want him back now. I was only 13 then. Now I'm almost 15 and I think I should have a boy friend. Don't you?

He has gone back to his old girl friend. Can you tell me how I can get him back? I'm tired of crying every time I see him with her. Still Loves Him in Northeast Philadelphia.

(A.) You didn't send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter. You must not have sent one with the others. Without one, I can't send you a personal answer in the mail.

It's been almost two years since you broke off with your friend. At your age, that's a long time. About all you can do now is let him know you still like him. Next time you see him, smile at him and suggest that he call you some time.

If he doesn't, you'll know he's no longer interested and you will have to find someone else.

AN OPEN EAR: (Q.) Your ability to listen—to really listen—is rare. I feel I have it, and I use it. But when I need someone to listen to me, no one is around. Tell me, who do you talk to in time of need? Abby?—A listener in Wisconsin.

(A.) I have a very understanding husband. I talk to him. I hope that soon you will find someone nearby who is eager to really listen to you.

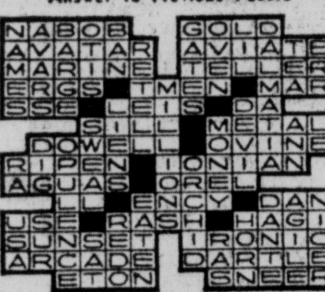

I'm happy that you and thousands of other teens feel free to talk to me. I like to listen!

Airport Clever 'Melodrama'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A fact that a quartet of six-episode series entitled "San Francisco International Airport" had its debut on NBC-TV Wednesday night, hoping to knock off its high-riding, head-on competitor, CBS-TV's "Hawaii Five-O."

The airport series is part of NBC's new Wednesday hour, which has the blanket title "Four-in-One," referring to the

Read the Tip-offs in Dummy Hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Defense is usually more difficult than dummy play. The reason is that declarer is operating 26 cards as a unit while each defender is struggling with his own 13 cards. Of course, he sees the dummy but somehow or other a defender doesn't take full advantage of what he sees and what he should know from the bidding.

South's four-spade bid was most effective. East wanted to try five diamonds but the vulnerability made it a trifle too dangerous. If he had taken that wild chance, the combination of the heart queen in the South hand and the diamond king in the North would have made him a real hero. Five diamonds would wheel in, but East passed and West was on lead.

West decided to open the queen of spades. It looks safe and he didn't know which other lead would prove unsafe.

South cashed the ace and king of spades, while East discarded the seven and then the three of diamonds.

Then South led the 10 of clubs. West slapped on the king without a moment's hesitation in order to put the queen of diamonds on the table. South ruffed that and led a second club to dummy's jack. With clubs breaking 3-3, South was able to discard a low heart and make his contract.

West blamed his partner for signaling in diamonds, but West's play of the club king was a bad one. East was really marked with the ace of clubs and West should have let East win that first club in order to

The $70,000 Alleged Offer

Procaccino Incident Erupts Anew

NEW YORK (AP) — The television debate Wednesday night, Rockefeller brought up the subject of Procaccino, a prominent Democrat who has endorsed the governor. Rockefeller said he felt it was "irrelevant" who made the alleged offer to Procaccino. This referred to his original charge that Goldberg personally offered the chairmanship of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, and a later version that his "management" did. Goldberg countered angrily that "an apology is due to me, and it is long overdue." He declared: "It is against the law to offer a position in government to anyone and I have always been a law-abiding citizen." On other issues, Goldberg accused the governor of spending $1.25 billion on highways, but only $1 billion on mass transportation, and criticized him for proposing a mass transit bond issue in 1967. Rockefeller told Goldberg: "You were in the city at that time but did not even register to vote." Goldberg retorted: "I was a diplomat at that time." Adams said the bond issue was costing the state $47 million in interest. Rockefeller said that he would establish a narcotics court and finance the building of more courts and prisons. "All the courts will have to handle crime because it is one of our biggest problems," Goldberg replied. Adams and Rockefeller agreed that more narcotics treatment facilities were needed and that they would not approve legalization of marijuana. Goldberg asserted that the marijuana question "should be settled scientifically—not by you and me." Lindsay hit out for the third day in a row at President Nixon and Vice President Agnew for fomenting mistrust and division for political gain. Election of the Liberal slate, said the mayor — himself re-elected as a Liberal last year — would be "the best hope to check this dangerous trend."

Stumping in Brooklyn, Ottinger expressed sympathy for merchants and citizens in high-crime areas and called crime victims "the real forgotten Americans."

Buckley Moving Like a Victor

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — James L. Buckley is barnstorming through upstate New York like a man convinced he will be elected U.S. senator on Tuesday. The Conservative party candidate attracted crowds at every stop—sometimes larger ones than Governor Rockefeller drew in the same city. Buckley cut half of his Wednesday schedule in Rochester because of a persistent chest cold. At every appearance he did make, he was cheered. There were no hecklers, no war protesters, only enthusiastic supporters — many of them young. Typical was an evening rally at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium. It was a good old fashioned gathering with a four-piece band, balloons, streamers and mini-skirted girls waving American flags. The candidate was the main attraction. The 750 people filling most of the seats in the hall interrupted his speech with applause 24 times. It was the standard speech, given at each stop, but his supporters cheered the evenly delivered message just as if they were hearing it for the first time. Buckley said he wanted to be a "responsible alternative" to his "twin" opponents, Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger and Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell. Then he described the kind of man who was voting Conservative in 1970. "He goes to work and God knows he pays his taxes," Buckley said. "He was in World War II or the Korean War and he wasn't anxious to go to war."

Goodell Sees an Unmistakable Trend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N. Y., five days from election day, today predicted an "unmistakable vote trend" for him and against Democratic Senate candidate Rep. Richard Ottinger. Goodell stated the "trend" proves he is the only candidate able to beat James L. Buckley, the Conservative candidate.

Rocky, Jim Boost Poll Leads

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Conservative party senatorial candidate James L. Buckley Jr. increased their leads in the second New York Daily News poll released today. Rockefeller's margin moved from 54 per cent in Sunday's poll to 57 per cent, while Goldberg fell from 37 to 36 per cent. Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., who has been attacked by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as being a "radical liberal," polled only 23 per cent of the vote, down a point from Sunday. Buckley, all but endorsed by the Nixon administration, increased his percentage from 37 to 39 while the Democratic candidate, Rep. Richard Ottinger, moved from 30 to 32 per cent in the Daily News poll which has correctly picked the winner in 26 of 30 elections since 1928.
